

UNITED STATES GRANTS CHINA NEW CREDITS IN FACE OF JAPANESE PROTEST AND WARNING

CALLAWAY RESIGNS HIS COUNCIL POST; BREWER ELECTED

Strife-Torn Body Sends Request to Assembly Allowing Any Member To Hold Pro Tem Office.

UNIFORM TERMS ALSO ARE URGED

New Series of Traffic Proposals Submitted To Police Committee.

Strife and rebellion yesterday marked the last meeting of the city council for the year as that body accepted the resignation of Alderman Roy E. Callaway, of the fourth ward; unanimously elected Dr. Lester R. Brewer, West End district, as Callaway's successor, and sent a series of proposed new traffic regulations to the police committee for further study.

Councilman J. Allen Couch succeeded in sending a request to the Georgia assembly that any member of council shall be eligible to serve as mayor pro tem. of council instead of adhering to the old custom and charter provision limiting the post to members of the aldermanic board.

"Quantity Against Quality."
The action was taken over the concerted opposition of members of the board of aldermen and when it appeared that the measure would pass any way, Alderman Ed A. Gilliam countered with "it's a question of quantity against quality."

There are a dozen members of general council, and half a dozen members of the aldermanic board. Mayor Pro Tem. Robert Carpenter ruled the proposed charter amendment out of order on the grounds that a majority of the ordinance and legislation committee was not present when a hearing was held on it, but a persistent and relentless city council appealed successfully from the ruling of the chair to force it through council.

Alaskan Pilot Flies 2 Seamen to Doctor

JUNEAU, Alaska, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Pilot Sheldon Simmons, who flew from Juneau today to aid 18 survivors of the wrecked motorship Patterson, radioed he had taken aboard his plane two of the seamen needing medical attention.

Leaving a guide, Emile Silvan, at the survivors' camp near Cape Fairweather, Simmons planned to return here with the two men.

Silvan will attempt to lead the 16 remaining seamen to a point where they can be picked up by coast guard vessels or other planes.

City Employees Union Adopts Deserted Wife and Children

Atlanta Body Will Give $25 a Month So That Mrs. I and Her Three Girls and One Boy May Receive Their Chance.

By FRANK DRAKE.
The Atlanta City Employees' Union, Local No. 4, came forward yesterday to "adopt" Opportunity Family No. 2 for 1939. The union will give the $25 a month that Mrs. I. must have to keep the home fires burning for her four children now that her husband has deserted her and his whereabouts are unknown.

The pledge of the city employees' union to supply the necessary money means that Mrs. I. will be able to keep body and soul together while she learns a trade that will enable her to earn a living. It means, too, that her three daughters and one son, Jennie, 14; George, 11; Ruby, 10, and Lola, 6, will remain in school—and they will not starve.

Happy Yule Ahead.
It means also that the I. family, buffeted by a fate over which it had no control, will spend a happy Christmas, knowing that help is forthcoming for the next year while they acclimate themselves to the problem presented when Mr. I. just up and left home.

FRENCH WILL ADD TO MIGHTY FLEET

New Warships To Give Democracies Powerful Lever Over Fascists.

PARIS, Dec. 19.—(UP)—Navy Minister Cesar Campinchi today announced that 340,000 tons of new French warships will be rushed to completion to give the co-ordinated fleets of Great Britain and France a 36 per cent tonnage superiority over the Rome-Berlin axis before the end of 1942. He said France will build four 35,000 aircraft carriers three 8,000-ton cruisers and many smaller ships and submarines.

Campinchi's announcement coincided with disclosure in the new edition of James' Fighting Ships, world's most authoritative naval handbook, that Germany is engaged in a secret battleship building race along with Soviet Russia and Japan.

At the same time Foreign Minister Bonnet publicly told Italy, in a speech before the chamber of deputies, that "any surprise move intended to oblige France to cede territory can lead only to armed conflict."

It was an unequivocal and apparently final answer to Italian agitation for the surrender of French territories in satisfaction of Premier Mussolini's Mediterranean and Red sea ambitions. Bonnet used words almost identical to those of Prime Minister Chamberlain—speaking at the same time in the British house of commons—when he cautioned the dictators.

Can You Identify the Cancellation On This Pre-Civil War Stamp?

Unusual Official Marking on 3-Cent Issue Has Collectors Baffled.

One day in April, 1859, the twenty-ninth day to be exact, a letter was cancelled by a pre-Civil War railway mail clerk. No one knows, and probably never will, who wielded the cancelling machine, which left its record on the stamp.

The present owner, H. M. Judd, of Dalton, a collector of United States postage stamps, says he can't even identify the railroad, although the cancel is plain. It reads: "S. A. & G. R. R. GEO. April 29, 1859." Judd specializes in cancellations, and seldom finds himself at a loss. But now he is asking The Constitution's readers to help him. Who can identify the cancella-

This 3-cent stamp, with a rare cancellation, so far has baffled collectors. Only three such cancellations are known. Write the city editor if you think you know. And thanks.

HITLER IS ASKED FOR CO-OPERATION BY CHAMBERLAIN

Makes Open Plea for a
'Sign' That Germany
Wants To Be Partner in Plans To Block War.

WARNS AGAINST 'TRAGIC BLUNDER'

Prime Minister Declares Nazis Apparently Have Not Been Impressed.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain openly asked Reichsfuehrer Hitler today to give him a "sign" that Nazi Germany wants to be a partner in his plans for the peace of Europe.

He coupled this plea, made before the house of commons, with an uncompromising defense of his foreign policy during the past 18 months. He assured the house that Britain and the United States have "no difficulties or differences" in the Far East or elsewhere.

Shortly after this statement commons defeated, 340 to 143, a Labor motion of censure which would have declared its lack of confidence in the prime minister's foreign policy.

Chamberlain said leaders of the German nation would be making a "tragic blunder" if they mistake British love of peace and a willingness to compromise for general weakness.

Apparently, said Chamberlain, Germany has not been impressed by the British spirit. "I am still waiting for a sign," he said, "from those who speak for the German people that they share this desire and that they are prepared to make a contribution to peace which would help us as much as it would help them."

Bucking the Laborite demand for a censure vote, Chamberlain sounded a warning to war-makers in the concluding words of his speech:

"I would not take the awful responsibility (of war) upon my shoulders unless it were to be forced upon me by the madness of others."

In a new and careful reference to the Far East, the prime minister said he understood the $25,000,000 loan to China by the United States Export-Import Bank, announced last week in Washington, was to facilitate American exports to China.

Loan to China.
Usually reliable sources reported Britain already has agreed to advance credits to China of 500,000 pounds (about $2,500,000) for buying trucks to be used on a new "road to Mandalay" from the interior of China to Burma.

Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax will be in Rome from January 11 to 14. The prime minister flatly denied reports he would cede British Somaliland or any other colonial territory to Italy. He reiterated British stand fast with France.

Reports of a planned cession of Somaliland were that the move would be made to satisfy Italy in connection with Fascist clamor over French territory in Africa. There were reports that one or two junior members of the government had joined those Conservatives who are dissatisfied with Chamberlain's foreign policy and the state of the nation's defenses.

The project was reported to have received the approval of Dr. Carlos Concha, Peruvian foreign minister. It was translated into English and French this afternoon, and a copy was sent to Secretary Hull. Mello Franco, expected to discuss the finished project with the smaller delegations singly.

Cuba's proposal for mediation in the Spanish War by American republics was killed by a steering committee vote of 18 to 3, only Cuba, Haiti and Mexico approving. The United States was among the delegations voting against it.

Children at Orphans' Home Rehearse for Santa Claus

Only five more days until Christmas, but the kindergarten pupils at the Georgia Baptist Orphans' Home were rehearsing yesterday for Santa's visit next Saturday night. At the left is E. J. DEFENSE PROJECT COMPROMISE SET

Lima Agreement Believed Near; Intervention in Spanish War Is Barred.

LIMA, Peru, Dec. 19.—(AP)—The Western Hemisphere solidarity and defense project took a big step forward today at the eighth Pan-American conference as the Brazilian delegation completed a compromise draft resolution.

Several of the principal leaders predicted agreement would be reached within a few days. The delegates appeared to be near a split Saturday on the issues of New World solidarity, with the United States favoring a pronouncement against outside aggression while Argentina, fearful of angering European friends and of any future change in Washington's policy, wanted a resolution which merely used the word aggression.

Both United States Secretary of State Cordell Hull and the chief Argentine delegate, Isidoro Ruiz Moreno, seemed to be in accord today that the resolution should be stronger than the agreement reached at Buenos Aires in 1936.

That agreement provided for consultation simply "in the event the peace of the American republics is menaced."

Today's Brazilian draft, drawn up by former Foreign Minister Afonso Mello Franco, is reported to go further in that the signatories would declare themselves ready to defend the American continent against expansionist plans of other powers and express a readiness to combine immediately in common defense.

The project was reported to have received the approval of Dr. Carlos Concha, Peruvian foreign minister. It was translated into English and French this afternoon, and a copy was sent to Secretary Hull. Mello Franco, expected to discuss the finished project with the smaller delegations singly.

Cuba's proposal for mediation in the Spanish War by American republics was killed by a steering committee vote of 18 to 3, only Cuba, Haiti and Mexico approving. The United States was among the delegations voting against it.

Whitehead Gift To Help Orphans' Yule

Provision in Will Provided Special Fund for Presents.

By YOLANDE GWIN.
When Santa Claus climbs down the chimney at the Georgia Baptist Orphans' Home on Christmas Eve, his pack will be overflowing with presents made possible by the will of Joseph B. Whitehead.

The home is one of the two orphans' institutions receiving $15,000 from the Joseph B. Whitehead foundation, the fund set up last year by the late soft-drink millionaire. The other is the Methodist Children's Home in Decatur.

In his will, Whitehead requested that a certain portion of the income of the foundation be distributed to orphans' homes before the Christmas holidays to provide presents and gifts for the children there. He mentioned that he often visited orphanages with his father around Christmas time, and the general gloominess made an impression on him that he had never been able to forget.

There will be no broken hearts after Santa's visit and there will be no disappointments to nurse because St. Nicholas left a train-in-

JACKSON DINNER PLANS LAUNCHED

Leo T. Crowley, Deposit Insurance Corporation Chairman, Will Speak.

Leo T. Crowley, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, will be guest speaker at the Jackson Day dinner in Atlanta Saturday night, January 7, when Georgia Democrats rally for their annual get-together.

Acceptance by Mr. Crowley of the invitation to speak at the dinner, which will be held in the Henry Grady hotel, was received yesterday afternoon by Ryburn Clay, chairman of the Jackson Day dinner in Georgia, through Oliver A. Quayle Jr., acting treasurer of the Democratic national committee.

Arrangements for the dinner will be discussed at an organization meeting of the Georgia committee in Mr. Clay's office in the Fulton National Bank at 9 o'clock this morning. Steps are being taken to build up a state and county organization for the dinner, and headquarters will be opened immediately at the Henry Grady hotel.

The dinner is to begin at 7 o'clock and the guests will listen

Elissa Landi's Collarbone Broken When Auto Skids Into Bridge Post

Injured as She Attempts To Cut Off Ignition of Car.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—(UP)—Elissa Landi, film star, was brought to her home today with a broken collarbone, received in an automobile accident last Saturday near High Falls, N. Y.

Miss Landi was driving with her father, Count Landi, when their car skidded on an ice-covered bridge and crashed into a post. She reached to turn off the ignition and was caught between the steering wheel and the dashboard.

Neither Count Landi nor a dog that was in the car at the time was hurt. Miss Landi could not be returned to New York for medical attention until today, but a

MORGENTHAU SAYS U. S. NOT VIOLATING NEUTRAL STATUS

Foreign Minister Arita
Declares $25,000,000
Loan Last Week Would Be Dangerous Gesture.

REGRETTABLE ACT, TOKYO ANNOUNCES

Japan States Extrater- ritoriality Privileges in China Will Be Ended.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—(AP)—The Treasury, ignoring strong words of protest from Japan, extended more credits today to China.

While Japanese Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita was terming "dangerous" a $25,000,000 loan given China last week by the Export-Import Bank, Secretary Morgenthau was renewing for an indefinite period an agreement to lend China undisclosed amounts of dollar exchange.

With a bland "Who's at war?" Morgenthau asserted that no question of neutrality was involved in the credits to China. (Japan has not formally declared war.)

The Treasury head described the Chinese loans as "credits to a friendly nation" and said any other "friendly nation" except war debt defaulters barred by the Johnson act also could "apply" for loans.

"Door Is Wide Open."
"The door is wide open," he declared with a smile. This was a paraphrase of the "open door" doctrine, which calls for equal commercial opportunity for all nations in China. The Japanese, over the objections of the United States, threaten to revise this doctrine.

After declaring any qualified nation could apply here for loans, Morgenthau added the right to apply was no guarantee that all requests would be granted.

The credits granted today are of more technical than commercial importance. China must pay American dollars for American merchandise. It gets most of its dollars by selling silver to the Treasury, but sometimes runs short of dollars in the intervals between silver shipments. Today's agreement permits China to borrow dollars from the Treasury's stabilization fund on the security of gold which China has on deposit in the Federal Reserve banks in this country. When China's next silver shipment—they run to $12,000,000 a month—arrives, the silver is sold for dollars, and the dollar exchange loan is repaid.

The gold on deposit here thus

As Brewer Takes Oath To Succeed Roy Callaway

Fellow members of the fourth ward delegation in city council yesterday are shown above as they steered the new alderman, Dr. Lester R. Brewer, through the formality of being sworn in after his unanimous election to succeed Alderman Roy E. Callaway, who resigned because of ill health. Shown, left to right, are Councilman C. M. (Mac) Bolen, Dr. Brewer, Councilman John T. Marler, Mayor Hartsfield, who administered the oath, and Mayor Pro Tem Robert Carpenter.

CALLAWAY QUILTS; BREWER ELECTED

should carry a 'definite request.' He attempted to pass an amendment which would increase the terms of those slated to face the electorate next year until 1940. It was killed and the White-Couch measure was passed.

There were reports, however, that what Gilliam attempted to have included in the bill will be recommended by the Fulton county delegation, but that the delegation did not want it specified.

So pronounced was the discord prevalent at the meeting that Mayor Hartsfield and Councilman George B. Lyle clashed over the resignation offered by Alderman Callaway.

When the measure was presented, Lyle arose to say Callaway had called him during the morning and said he had no intention of resigning during the day.

The mayor countered by presenting the resignation which was dated December 17, and which he said was authentic. Hartsfield then hit at politics in this matter.

Lyle countered with "I'm not playing any more politics than you and some of the rest are."

For several weeks, Alderman Callaway had considered filing his resignation due to illness from which he had suffered for months. He had refused to file the resignation because of a division among council members as to whom they would designate as his successor.

Yesterday, he decided to allow council to fight it out, and forwarded it to the mayor.

When it had been accepted, Councilman John T. Marler, of the fourth ward delegation, nominated Dr. Brewer. There were seconds from all parts of the chamber.

Traffic Proposals. Explaining that he believes the 25-mile city speed limit should be increased to 30 or 35 miles an hour in outlying sections, Couch yesterday announced he will not attempt to force his views on this council at this time.

However, he offered a series of new traffic regulations and asked that they be sent to the police committee for study. This was done.

Under the new Couch proposals, a non-parking zone would be established in the vicinity of Five Points. The following areas would be made non-parking at all hours:

Marietta from Broad to Forsyth streets; Wall street plaza from Peachtree to Pryor streets; Walton from Forsyth to Peachtree streets; Poplar from Peachtree to Spring streets; Forsyth from Marietta to Walton streets; Peachtree from Decatur and Marietta streets to Walton street; Auburn avenue from Peachtree to Pryor streets; Edgewood avenue from Peachtree to Pryor streets; Decatur from Peachtree to Pryor streets; Peachtree from Marietta to the Whitehall street viaduct.

Among other traffic proposals of Couch which went to the police committee were:

Abolition of all cross walks in downtown Atlanta except at street intersections; abolition of double parking, turning of cars or trucks in the "middle of the block," and angle parking on Atlanta streets at any time; provision to force pedestrians to remain on sidewalks and not step from curbs when waiting for traffic lights to change.

Violation of any of these provisions would be punishable by a $3 fine, according to the tentative ordinance.

Two-car traffic lines would be established in each direction on Spring street from Peachtree to Whitehall streets; Washington street from Trinity avenue to Courtland street, and Courtland from Edgewood avenue to North avenue, under another series of proposals.

TENTATIVE BUDGET FILED WITH COUNCIL.

The tentative 1939 budget calling for a municipal expenditure of about $10,000,000 for the year was filed yesterday with council for the budget commission which will begin a study of finances for the new year after the January reorganization meeting.

OLD AMERICAN MAP DONATED TO STATE

Claud E. Buchanan Presents Sheet Dated 1740.

Donation of a North American map of 1740 to the Georgia Department of Archives by Claud E. Buchanan, of 287 The Prado; was revealed yesterday.

On the map Charleston is represented by a castle, S. Augustine (St. Augustine) is designated by a fort and Fia de Sapala shows the location of what is now the Island of Sapelo. The map, which is from an Italian atlas dated 1740-1750, was sent to Buchanan from Italy. It has been added to the state cartographic collection of early Spanish, French and English maps.

ALDERMEN HOLD UP NEW STEINER LEASE

Hailey Attacks Provision Allowing Directors To Determine Free Patients.

A new lease agreement between the city and Steiner Cancer Hospital, Inc., yesterday struck a snag when it was held up in the aldermanic board on notice of reconsideration filed by Alderman I. Gloor Hailey.

The measure, substantially the same as one approved several months ago and reported to have cost the city $270,000 in addition for 100 new beds, was presented by Councilman John A. White.

Council approved it without dissent, but when it reached the aldermanic board, Hailey attacked a provision permitting the board of directors of the corporation to decide "which of Atlanta's citizens are entitled to treatment free and which are not."

After the alderman voted approval over his protest, Hailey served notice he will move for reconsideration at the next meeting of the board early next year.

Under laws of the city, the Hailey move automatically suspends final approval until another vote is taken by the aldermen.

TAX LIEN PROPOSAL GIVEN COMMITTEE

Council Declines To Reset Date at January 31.

Council refused yesterday to reset the tax lien at January 31 instead of December 31, but sent the proposal to the tax committee, headed by Councilman Frank Wilson.

Two weeks ago, the lien date was changed from January 31 of each year to the preceding December 31. Merchants contend that the change will impose an extra penalty on them.

Wilson called a meeting of his committee, to which the public is invited, for 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, December 27.

CYCLORAMA PRICE INCREASE OPPOSED

Tourist Official Files Complaint With Council.

Faber Bollinger, secretary of the Atlanta Tourist & Convention Bureau, yesterday formally filed with council a complaint on reports that the price of admission to the dramatized Cyclorama painting of the Battle of Atlanta will be increased from 25 cents to 50 cents.

Bollinger said he had heard reports to this effect. The city is extending about $40,000 in modernizing and lighting the painting. An amplifying system also is being installed for the lecturers.

The matter was referred to the parks committee.

NEW GAME PRESERVE IS PLANNED FOR GRADY

CAIRO, Ga., Dec. 19.—(P)—Plans are being made to establish a 2,441-acre game preserve in the southern section of Grady county.

J. E. Ladson Sr., wholesale lumberman of Moultrie, has bought the old C. T. Collins plantation, extending for several miles along the Ocklawaha river, for the project.

CITY COUNCIL CURB ON MAYOR UPHOLD

Refuses To Amend Rule Prohibiting Appearance When Member Objects.

City council yesterday refused to amend its rules to permit the mayor to appear before council over the objection of a member.

Alderman I. Gloor Hailey offered the measure, explaining "the mayor has said he cannot even speak to council on matters of public interest if any member objects."

"I want to correct that," Hailey continued. "He has said it in the press and we should do something about it."

Councilman J. Allen Couch arose to contend that by a majority vote council could resolve itself into a "committee of the whole to hear the mayor or anyone else." He insisted that the proposal be referred to the ordinance and legislation committee.

A few minutes after that action, Mayor Hartsfield entered the chamber to present the resignation of Fourth Ward Alderman Roy E. Callaway. Just before he took the rostrum, Councilman George B. Lyle arose to demand that the mayor submit "himself to questioning if he is going to speak." When there was no commitment, Lyle formally offered his objection.

Council then invoked its right to resolve itself into a committee of the whole, heard the resignation and later accepted it in formal session.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 19.—(P)—Federal Judge William H. Kirkpatrick today ordered an American Federation of Hosiery Workers' local to open its records for a search for evidence to show whether it was responsible for a sit-down strike at the Apex Hosiery Mills in 1937.

Fewer Councilmen But Same Oratory

Two former members of city council—ex-Alderman Charles M. Ford and former Councilman Joseph W. Weaver—heard council battle yesterday and were impressed "with the fact that a reduction in the number of council members did not reduce the oratory."

Both said they could "discern no appreciable improvement." Ford attended a meeting of the city governing body for the first time in 10 years.

When he and Weaver were members, council was composed of 39 members instead of 18 as at present.

SOUTH-BOUND

With the suddenness of a Jack-in-the-Box, up pops the Sissy—the "little girl" fashion-furor sweeping the solid South. As young and engaging as Shirley Temple, as quaint as a McGuffey pinafore, as prissy as the ruffles on a little girl's drawers. Bathing suits blossom with puffed sleeves, fluffy ruffles. Play Suits go Victorian with ric-rac, crochet and tatting. Bathing shoes assume the formality of evening slippers. Even the tersely tailored classics yield to the frivolity of fuller skirts and gentle shirring. If you're going South, the signal is "Sissy." Do a one-two-three—glide to the sweetest and sissiest South clothes in the town—Davison's!

OFFICERS PRESS CAMPAIGN AGAINST AUTO ACCIDENTS

New 25-Mile Limit Is Gradually Decreasing Number of Speeders, Malcom Records Show.

Atlanta police yesterday continued their intensive drive on traffic violators in an effort to reduce auto fatalities, as a gradual reduction in the number of arrests of motorists for speeding indicated that the new 25-mile-per-hour speed limit was proving successful.

With the total of traffic fatalities to date only four less than the grand total for 1932, Captain Jack Malcom, head of the traffic bureau, announced the department would continue its vigorous drive for the next two weeks.

Meanwhile, steps were taken to raise the state's speed limit to 55 miles per hour from 40.

Police records showed that of 44 persons arrested for alleged violations of traffic regulations up to 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, only five were apprehended for speeding. This compares favorably with the 62 cases booked against speeders over the week end, the traffic bureau pointed out.

Efforts of police will be directed against motorists and pedestrians alike, Captain Malcom said, pointing out that the last half of December is the most dangerous in the year from a traffic viewpoint.

"Definite orders have been issued to traffic police to 'clamp down' in the enforcement of all traffic regulations. This will apply to both motorist and pedestrian," Captain Jack Malcom said.

"Traffic will be unusually heavy during all hours of the day and far into the night during this week—both pedestrian and vehicular—as out-of-town celebrants begin arriving for the holidays.

"I am appealing to motorists and pedestrians to use extreme caution while driving or walking.

Further to impress upon the public the dangers existing in carelessness, a specially equipped automobile was placed in service on downtown streets yesterday afternoon. Painted white and gold, the car is provided with a loud-speaking system through which a patrolman will warn pedestrians and motorists of violations.

Records of safety talks, made by Chief of Police M. A. Hornsby, Captain Malcom and Mayor Hartsfield also are carried in the car and are broadcast at intervals to the Christmas throng.

Co-operation Praised.

Co-operation of the public was praised by Captain Malcom, who pointed out that since the enforcement campaign was inaugurated Saturday, December 10, injuries resulting from accidents have fallen sharply.

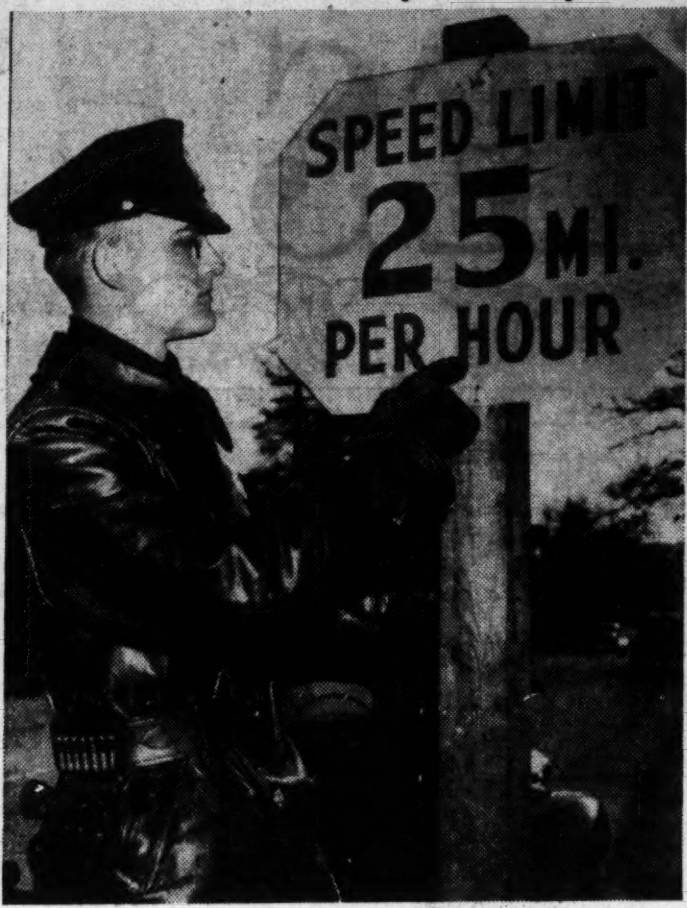

According to police records, seven persons were injured the opening day of the drive. The following day only one was hurt, while for the next three successive days no injuries were recorded. On December 15, two were injured, while on the following day only one injury as the result of an accident was reported. Two injuries were recorded Saturday, four on Sunday and only one yesterday, Ellix Teller, 5-year-old negro child, being struck by a truck driven by W. P. Morgan, of 2462 Peachtree street, when he darted in front of the machine at 139 Ellis street. He was bruised about the head and face.

While Atlanta police sought the solution to their traffic problem by reducing the speed limit, the State Board of Public Safety approved a proposal to increase the speed limits on state highways from the present 40-mile-an-hour mark to 55 miles an hour.

Bill Proposed.

Following a meeting at state highway patrol headquarters to map a legislative program design-

Traffic Officers Impress Upon Drivers Necessity of Observing Laws

"A word to the wise..." Motorcycle Officer J. J. Masters points a warning finger at one of the new "25-mile-an-hour" speed limit signs which have been placed at conspicuous points throughout the city to advise motorists of the new speed limit which is being enforced by Atlanta police in their drive to cut down auto accidents.

This one didn't get the point. Possibly annoyed by the "beep" of this motorist's horn, an officer of the Atlanta traffic squad is shown impressing verbally the finer points of traffic regulations and observance on the mind of an impatient driver. That traffic was held up seemed of little consequence to the officer.

Why motorists go mad. Typical of the many scenes which are enacted hourly in all parts of downtown Atlanta where traffic is heavily congested, is the "snarl" above at the Central avenue viaduct on Hunter street. The driver in the foreground "shot through" on the light but his progress was impeded before he could clear the intersection, much to the chagrin of a score or more drivers who had the right-of-way. It is to avoid the occurrence of such traffic jams as this that Atlanta police are urging discretion.

ed to promote greater safety on Georgia highways, Representatives Reid and Beck, of Carroll county, announced they would sponsor a bill at the coming session of the legislature to raise the state speed limit.

The Carroll delegation made known their plans after the board of public safety had voted to recommend the speed change to the assembly. Lon Sullivan, director of safety education, said the 55-mile figure was fixed by the National Safety Council and the Federal Bureau of Public Roads.

"In time we hope to have the 55-mile limit uniform over the nation and have other uniform regulations by which all drivers may travel with a degree of safety," Sullivan said.

The present limit of 40 miles is violated by every driver on the highway," Reid said. "It was written into law in the old days before paved roads and at that time it was a reasonable limit. We do not favor throwing down the gauntlet but we favor passage of a law which every driver should respect, and we cannot honestly ask them to respect the 40 mile limit."

The Carroll representative said the Reid-Beck bill would carry other regulations seeking to add to safety on the public highways.

Condition of two persons injured in accidents over the weekend in Atlanta and vicinity was termed serious last night.

An amputation was necessary in the case of C. Palmer Kitchin, 30, of 321 Drexel avenue, Decatur, who fell and badly mangled his right arm when attempting to board a street car on DeKalb avenue late Saturday night.

J. B. Hucklebee, of White's Mill road, was in Emory University hospital with a crushed chest and internal injuries received in an accident on Candler road, between McAfee and White's Mill roads Sunday. Hucklebee was hurt when his car crashed into an automobile driven by H. F. Bowden, of Flat Shoals road. Four occupants of the Bowden machine escaped with minor injuries.

Three persons, one an Atlanta woman, were killed in accidents in the state over the week end. They were Mrs. N. Estelle Gaynes, 32,

YOUNG GIRL SAVES BOY WITH SHOVE

Pushes Brother From Path of Auto; Both Children Injured.

A nine-year-old girl was credited with saving the life of her younger brother last night by rushing into a street and pushing him from the path of an automobile.

Charles Ellis Turner, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Turner, of 4 West avenue, Carey Park, was crossing Bankhead avenue at Ashby street when an automobile, which police said was driven by B. L. Blackwell, 29, of 1390 Murphy avenue, made a left turn from Ashby street into Bankhead.

When Edna Margens Turner saw the car bearing down on her brother, she ran toward him and gave him a push. Despite her heroic efforts the boy was knocked to the pavement and suffered a broken collar bone. Edna received bruises and scratches. They were treated at Grady hospital and dismissed.

Officers H. T. Waters and C. T. Sweatman arrested Blackwell and charged him with drunken and reckless driving and failure to have a driver's license. He was cited to appear in recorder's court at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

WARREN T. MCCRAY DIES IN INDIANA

Ex-Governor Once Served Term in Federal Prison Here.

News dispatches last night told of the death at his home near Kentland, Ind., of former Governor Warren T. McCray, of Indiana, who served three years in the federal prison here in the mid-twenties on a conviction of having used the mails to defraud.

McCray, who was 73, died of a heart attack while at dinner. His wife, a sister of George Ade, author and wit, was with him. He had been in declining health for nearly a year.

Governor from 1921 to 1924, McCray, after attracting nationwide attention by his conviction, finally obtained a parole. He obtained a full pardon from President Hoover in 1930.

Since his retirement from politics he had devoted himself to his 3,000-acre Orchard Lake stock farm, where he specialized in raising purebred Hereford cattle.

A son, George, who lived with his parents; a sister, Mrs. Fannie Compere, of Kentland, and two daughters, Mrs. W. P. Evans, of Indianapolis, and Marion McCray, of Kentland, also survive. No funeral arrangements had been made last night.

JAMES D. REMBERT FINAL RITES TODAY

Burial Will Be in West View Cemetery.

Funeral services for James D. Rembert, 54, who died Saturday night at a downtown hotel, where he resided, will be conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the chapel of Sam R. Greenberg & Company by Rev. Dr. Edward G. Mackay. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

A native of Dalton, Mr. Rembert was for years an employee of the Georgia Department of Natural Resources at the state capital, and before that had been connected with the N. C. & St. L. railroad and the old Atlanta Baggage & Cab Company.

WHITEHEAD GIFT TO BRIGHTEN YULE

stead of a football, or a doll instead of a tea set.

Santa Claus has his special scouts out at the Georgia Baptist Home, and this year as in former years, they know the wish and desire of each of the 249 children who are housed and cared for under the maintenance of voluntary contributions of friends of the home throughout the state. This year, however, the Whitehead gift of $15,000 has been added to the home fund.

There will be no extravagance in the Christmas preparations, according to E. J. White, the kindly superintendent at the home, but there will be evidence of the home's latest gift.

Tree Decorated.

Out at the home yesterday, excitement and anticipation of Christmas had already taken hold of the children as they counted the hours until Christmas. A huge tree in the main building was being decorated, while the nine groups composing membership of the home were making plans for their individual trees.

Christmas Day will find more than 30 children loaned out to private homes for visits, while many will be with relatives. Nellie Early, 18, and Ruth Murphy, 3, are age extremes at the home. Yesterday the former was dreaming about lots of "pretty things" for Christmas, while Ruth, contrary to general opinion, wants a bicycle instead of a doll.

Most of the children are too young to know that their Christmas and their lives at the home will be made brighter and happier by the will of Joseph B. Whitehead and his gift of $15,000 for their aid and care.

All these children were thinking of yesterday was Santa Claus and that magic night before Christmas when they will be nestled all snug in their beds, while visions of sugar plums dance in their heads.

Georgia's Jobless Reduced by 4,907

Ben T. Huiett, state commissioner of labor, announced yesterday the Georgia State Employment Service found jobs for 4,907 unemployed persons during November. Of this number 2,205 were placed in private employment, and 2,702 on public works jobs.

The Macon district led in placements made in private industry for the month with a total of 351, while the Atlanta district was second with 348. In total placements for the month the Macon district led with 925, while the Columbus district was second with 316.

The state's 33 public employment offices registered 10,615 unemployed persons seeking work during the month.

Isadore Kuniansky, Edward M. Kahn, L. J. Levitas, Barney Mendintz, Stephen Schiffer, Dr. Joseph Yampolsky, Dr. Alfred Weinstein, Joe Wolfe and J. H. Wilensky. The new officers will be installed at the January meeting.

Members of the group adopted a resolution electing Henry A. Alexander honorary life president of the lodge. He is a former president of the local and district lodges and a former member of the executive committee of the national organization.

9 SUSPECTS HELD AS POLICE PROBE ROBBERIES HERE

Four Seized in New Orleans in Connection With Radiogram Swindle.

Nine suspects were being held by police in various parts of the country yesterday in connection with recent thefts and a fraud in Atlanta.

In New Orleans three men and a woman believed to have been involved in a $1,600 radiogram swindle here, were arrested in connection with a similar transaction there. Meanwhile, Atlanta detectives awaited photographs and fingerprints of the quartet.

Fake Radiogram.

They gave their names as Mr. and Mrs. Carlo Vano, Henry Bond and Harry Goldstein. The swindle here involved a fake radiogram, purporting to be from Andre Wallach, president of the Sylva Industrial Corporation, then aboard a ship en route to Europe, requesting Ulysses Rice, his secretary, to pay $1,600 for a mysterious package. The package later proved to contain a dime's worth of sugar.

Virginia state police took into custody a man who gave his name as Marshall Rowan. Police said Rowan admitted he was shot as he drove out of a Whitehall street filling station without paying for 10 gallons of gasoline recently.

Minor Wound.

State Trooper Steve McWilliams, who telegraphed Atlanta police about the suspect, said Rowan had a minor bullet wound in his head and that there were several bullet holes in the rear of his automobile. Three others in the car who gave their names as Kelsey Cox, Columbus Wallace and Jennie Wallace, were held for investigation.

Jack Spradlin, of Howell Mill road, was held at Fulton tower on a charge of robbery in connection with the Armistice Day hold-up of a cab driver, W. A. Evans, on Simpson road. Two men entered his cab at the Union bus terminal, threatened Evans with a pistol and demanded his cash. Evans snatched the keys from the ignition and ran.

E. R. Long, alias Ed Peacock, alleged participant in the hold-up, already is under sentence of from two to four years.

JAPANESE SIGN NEW COTTON PACT

Spinners Agree To Limit Exports to U. S.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—(AP)—A two-year extension of the pact by which Japanese manufacturers limit themselves to a restricted share of the American market for cotton goods was signed tonight by representatives of the Japanese and American cotton goods industries.

Renewal of the accord commits Japanese spinners to an American export of a basic quota of 100,000,000 yards in 1939 and 1940.

JACKSON DINNER PLANS LAUNCHED

to President Roosevelt's speech over the radio at 8:30 o'clock, Mr. Crowley's address following immediately after the conclusion of the President's remarks, under tentative plans.

Mr. Clay was highly pleased over Mr. Crowley's acceptance, and expressed belief Georgians who attend the dinner are in for a rare treat. He pointed out Mr. Crowley, in addition to being a distinguished speaker, is a very able man and the head of one of the most important corporations set up by the government during the Roosevelt administration.

In its last annual report, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation reported that on December 31, 1937, it was insuring deposits of 13,853 banks, these banks holding total deposits of about $48,000,000,000, of which more than $21,000,000,000 were estimated to have been protected by insurance. Depositors numbered more than 50,000,000, of whom 98 per cent were fully protected.

National Democratic Chairman James A. Farley, in a wire to Mr. Clay, expressed his delight because Mr. Clay has agreed to take over the chairmanship of the Jackson Day dinner in Georgia, and said: "I know that under your able management, a very fine committee will be formed and the dinner put over successfully."

Funds from the dinner will be sent to the Democratic national committee.

Wage-Hour Law Doesn't Operate At Post Office

CHRISTMAS, Fla., Dec. 19.—(UP)—Postmistress Juanita S. Tucker tonight worked far past the regular closing time, running through the cancellation machine mounds of letters sent here for remailing from throughout the United States and foreign countries.

The machine stamped each letter with a small green Christmas tree and the inscription, "Yuletide Greetings, 1938."

"It's the busiest season yet," Mrs. Tucker said. She expected more than 500,000 pieces of the special mail would be cleared through this hamlet's post office by Christmas.

FLORIDA VACATION ENDS IN TRAGEDY

Girl and Father Drown in Biscayne Bay.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Dec. 19.—(P)—The bodies of Charles S. Rye, 37, and his six-year-old daughter, Dorothy, were sent back to Chicago tonight as the tragic end of a vacation on which they had gaily embarked three weeks ago. Last Thursday they rented an open 22-foot motorboat to go fishing by themselves in Biscayne bay, as they had done almost daily regardless of the weather. They never returned.

The boat was found yesterday. The bodies were found by airplane searchers floating a mile off shore today.

Authorities surmised the child had fallen overboard and Rye had jumped in after her and that either he neglected to stop the boat or the throttle accidentally opened.

SEARCH CONTINUED FOR MISSING MAN

R. P. Johnson, 42, of East Point, Left in Car.

Police intensified their search yesterday for R. P. Johnson, 42, of 118 North East Point street, East Point, who mysteriously disappeared last Friday.

Mrs. Johnson told police her husband had lunch with her Friday. A few minutes later she said he took his car from a parking lot at Cain and Spring streets, telling the attendant he would be back in two hours. He made a brief visit home but has not been heard from since, police said.

GEORGIA YOUTH FOUND DROWNED AT NORFOLK

NORFOLK, Va., Dec. 19.—(P)—City Coroner C. D. J. MacDonald reported a preliminary investigation of the death of Harold Clifton Stephens, 19, of Oxford, Ga., led him to believe the youth drowned accidentally.

The body of Stephens, a seaman attached to the coast guard cutter Sebago, was found yesterday between the cutter and the dock to which it was made fast here. Stephens had been missing since Friday night.

FOR LATE PRIMARIES

On last March 2 the voters of Fulton county, in a properly conducted referendum, went on record in favor of a later date for the county primaries, and strongly in opposition to the practice of holding the primary elections some nine months or more before the new officials are to take over their public offices.

Tomorrow, Wednesday, the newly elected Fulton county Democratic executive committee will meet, for the first time since the referendum on the late primary issue was held. Following the mandate of the people, the rules and date for the next primary will be set for the fall, instead of the spring.

No county primary, in future, should be held at least until after Labor Day. Any earlier date is tantamount to taking the right of the ballot away from a large segment of citizens who are absent from the city, on vacation or for other cause, during the summer and early fall months.

The evils of an early primary were clearly set forth in these columns, and elsewhere, prior to the referendum last March. They will, however, bear partial reiteration, if for no other purpose than the refreshment of memory.

It is invariably true that professional officeholders prefer a primary as far ahead of the time for new terms to begin as possible. A primary held nine months ahead of that time is too early for the issues involved to be properly clarified in the public mind. It is too early for public interest to have been generally awakened.

Thus it is far easier for "machine politics," with its groups of "dependable" voters, to control a sufficient proportion of the inevitably smaller vote, to determine the outcome as they wish.

There is a notable instance before the people this year. The important report by Dr. Thomas H. Reed, of his survey of county and city governmental setups, was made public only three weeks before the primary of March 2. Now, regardless of the strengthening sentiment of the people about this report, it is impossible for them to make their wishes known in their choice of officials, because the primary was held and decided long before this important issue became a matter of general public concern.

Early primaries are contrary to the spirit of democratic government, they serve to perpetuate in office the professional politicians and they discourage that desirable interest in, and knowledge of, public governments on the part of the average voter.

In setting the date for the next county primary, the new county committee will, of course, follow the wishes of the people as expressed in the referendum. It is to be hoped they understand that that vote was for a primary as late as possible, and certainly not until after Labor Day.

MORE EFFRONTERY

Germany, which has tacitly admitted complicity of high officials in the spy plot recently revealed in New York, now has the effrontery to tell American motion picture operators they cannot make a film based on the admissions in the trial.

The thinly-veiled warning, issued to the Hays office, is but a single instance of a growing desire on the part of the Nazi government to dictate to democracies, and as such it should be viewed. Dr. Georg Gysling, the German consul, gave the Hays office a "friendly tip"—not a protest or warning, that the productions of any studio exhibiting a picture which "conflicts with German interests" would be barred from Germany in the future.

To the eternal credit of the motion picture industry, the warning was disregarded and production of a film along the lines of the New York disclosure is under way. It may be the picture will be barred from showing not only in Germany, but in France and England as well, since Nazi pressure has heretofore been able to operate effectively in these countries. It is to be regretted this is so, but it must be regarded as a challenge it will not happen in this country.

It is said that films barred from showing in foreign countries generally lose money. This factor has blocked the production of several large undertakings in the past, yet it is apparent it will be at least partially disregarded in the days to come. It should be possible for the motion picture industry to work out a form of industry subsidy (not federal subsidy) whereby the production of these taboo films will be made possible. The people of this country will not tolerate censorship of subject matter by persons in this nation, and there is more reason why censorship from Berlin should not be allowed to affect the making of pictures by American companies. The challenge is plain.

UNIVERSITIES AS PUBLISHERS

Rarely realized to the full is the contribution made to American literature by the University presses of the country, which bring to the reading public many volumes of a type generally neglected by commercial book publishers.

It is not that the books issued through the medium of the universities are not of lasting interest to the general public, but simply that, albeit of distinct value as contributions to the literature of this country, they do not lend themselves to high-pressure salesmanship. They find a more steady and substantial sale, however, to a section of the public which finds more lasting satisfaction in the work of writers who have been, generally speaking, taken under the wing of the university publishers.

An illustration of the work being accomplished in this field is contained in five books published in recent weeks.

Three are from the press of Princeton University. In "The Brandeis Way," Alpheus Thomas Mason has taken one incident in the life of the venerable justice of the supreme court, from which he has built a towering picture of the legislative statesmanship and social inventiveness of the liberal jurist. For those to whom democracy is a living and vital expression of a people, new strength is drawn from this story of a man who has shaped much of the progress this country has made in the present century.

The other side of a story—the fight to curb the power of the supreme court—is contained in Princeton's "Court Over Constitution," in which Edward S. Corbin presents the history behind the power of the highest tribunal. He views the New Deal reorganization attempt as merely a current aspect of a 150-year quarrel for and against judicial review. He views the court's recent retreats from adamant positions as "an act of statesmanship looking definitely to the continued survival and sound health of the constitution as a whole."

The third book looks important when it is considered that the Federal Reserve System's present chairman, Marriner Eccles, represents a school of thought which has had great influence in the present administration, and that a thorough knowledge of the operation of the nation's banking system may aid in any new examination of the structure. It is "The ABC of the Federal Reserve System," by Edwin W. Kemmerer.

Another type of contribution is found in two books released by the University of Oklahoma press. One is Richard Croom Beatty's masterful study of the life of Lord Macaulay, in which the Vanderbilt professor traces the events which created a great leader and played no little part in shaping an empire and the industrial revolution which has been culminated in American enterprise.

The second book dusts the clouds of more than 150 years from the archives to bring modern America an understanding of one of this country's greatest men—the Indian McGillivray, chief of the Creeks and often known as the "Talleyrand of Alabama." The letters which form the basis of the study were discovered through accident by a California professor. These particular books are used simply to illustrate the vital role that university presses have assumed in the literature of the country. The University of Georgia has made a start along similar lines. Duke University and the University of North Carolina have made great literary contributions to southern life. Oglethorpe University in Atlanta similarly has attempted to provide a picture of the life of our times.

Without the need to gauge pocketbooks, the universities are looming larger and larger in providing the means by which democracy acquires knowledge beyond that of mere formal study.

Hutchins, of Chicago, suggests a 10-cent admission to college football. What—no free dishes at night games?

Then there was the fearless Nazi editor, who said to the secretary, "Remind me to call Goebbels and find out what I think about this."

Just as hospitals are discharging the last of those patients who yawn, for six weeks straight, Franco predicts that final victory again.

Fairy story: "Once upon a time a family moved, and its belongings, when piled on the sidewalk, looked—very costly and attractive."

"If given a truffle," asks a radio quiz, "would you wear it, eat it or sit on it?" Couldn't we ignore it?

In Montreal a despondent cobbler swallowed shoe varnish and was carried to a hospital more dead than alive. Maybe he was tired of it awl.

There has been a general turning of the worms. Vallee, the crooner, takes a solid poke at a heckler, and France may have something similar in mind.

A NEW WEAPON IN THE WAR UPON PAIN

(From The Philadelphia Inquirer)
The announcement by two doctors of their discovery of a local anesthetic which, once injected, will stop pain for three weeks, will interest persons who have suffered from major ills as well as from toothache, lumbago, crushed fingers and other tribulations which can hurt terribly, yet have no serious effect on general bodily health.

Anesthesia was practiced by the ancient Egyptians and Romans and South American Indians, to say nothing of Sir Humphrey Davy and Michael Faraday, long before Dr. Crawford W. Long, of Georgia, used ether in an operation in 1842. Of late there have been several startling innovations. Cyclopropane is now made cheaply from petroleum; procaine and epinephrine have been combined with amazing results; pentothal, one of fifty barbituric acid derivatives, is the latest of this family of hypnotics; even helium has been pressed into use.

If this new anesthetic can end post-operative or injury pains for three weeks, perhaps permanent immunity, even if frequent injections are needed, is around the corner. This would at least minimize loss of work by wage-earners, all-important today. A cure for rheumatism is still elusive, but if its suffering can be eliminated there isn't much left to worry about. Gradually the world is being relieved of its pains.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

THE END OF AN ERA—WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—An era has ended with the reluctant retirement of the Honorable Daniel Calhoun Roper from his office at the Commerce Department. For years Uncle Dan has been a mere museum piece—a curious relic of the earlier time when Franklin Delano Roosevelt was not a New Dealer but a Democrat. And now, at last, his transformed friend has pried Uncle Dan out of his comfortable job, to make way, very probably, for the arch-New Dealer of them all, Harry L. Hopkins.

It's really sad to see Uncle Dan go, not only because he enjoyed being secretary of commerce so obviously and frankly that his delight was positively picturesque. He was the perfect specimen of the contented job-holder. Just why he was contented, it was sometimes difficult to know. So far as administrative power or influence on public policy were concerned, Uncle Dan might just as well have been in Kamchatka for the last five years. He longed for the great money. He longed to figure in the news of the day. His whole department used to be mobilized before his press conferences. Every smidgen of possibly significant information used to be scratched up. Uncle Dan himself used to begin, "I want to be frank with you gentlemen," and then tell all he knew. But, unhappily, he never knew much of great importance. He could only figure as an amiable old fellow with a handle to his name, who had the odd habit, at the most worrisome junctures of and upon the most important occasions, of saying: "All is for the best in this best of possible worlds."

BLASTED FROM HIS SEAT—In a way, Uncle Dan's cheerful unimportance really increased his value as a picturesque exhibit. It made him an even better example of the curious system by which the great offices of the American state are filled, not by those best qualified to hold them, but to men who have helped train the right political contestant.

There were three reasons why Uncle Dan was named secretary of commerce. The first was that he picked Roosevelt early, and plugged for him hard. The second was that, at a moment in the 1932 campaign when cash to pay the broadcasting companies was in the hands of the government, Uncle Dan, in his capacity as secretary of the Federal Reserve System, plunked a roll of several thousand dollars in bills on the table. And the third was that Cordell Hull's appointment was thought to give the south inadequate "representation."

Having picked him as secretary of commerce, the President then proceeded to forget about him. While hurt by it, Uncle Dan put up with his oblivion, being happy to be allowed to make his department a teeming huddle of underlings, and to enjoy all the other perquisites and emoluments of his place. Indeed, he enjoyed them so much that it practically took blasting powder to get him out. Long ago, he began to receive tempting offers of alternative employments. But he knew where he was well off.

Then, this fall, cabinet reconstruction was decided on. Uncle Dan's name led the list of the proscribed. The ax seemed about to fall at the last moment. An hour before the cabinet was to be announced, Uncle Dan announced to the press that he had "no intention of resigning." Thus, the execution's hand was briefly stayed. His friends say that he was finally requested to retire only a day or so before his unintended resignation was published to the world.

32 YEARS OF PAY—Although Uncle Dan was born in South Carolina, and played a Carolina's part, he has actually been a Washington jobber for most of his life. From the day, in 1893, when he left home to become clerk of the senate committee on interstate commerce, his career was a steady upward climb through the hierarchy of political placemen. He was off the public pay roll for only one brief interval until 1920, when Harding's election forced him to resign the commissionership of internal revenue. The next years he devoted to amassing a fortune as a lawyer, often practicing before the government departments, and then, in 1933, Roosevelt put him on the pay roll again.

He was an agreeable representative of his peculiar type, being kindly, invariably soft-spoken, well turned out and benevolent looking. He was always ready with a speech or statement, always tactful, always loyal to the President. But, under his regime, the Commerce Department virtually ceased to function, being unable even to produce adequate statistics. Uncle Dan, in his capacity as an old fellow as you could imagine, the value of the system which put him in charge of a vast governmental agency is at least to be questioned.

Never do today

The lazy rascal sings:
Why should we weep,

The Art of Procrastination

Of all the arts, I doubt if there is any which calls for more spiritual labor than that of procrastination. It involves such strain upon the conscience and the better self that the really sincere procrastinator will often find himself utterly exhausted after a bout with his favorite habit.

The strain arises from the self-condemnation and worry the art always awakens. The artist may be exceedingly successful at his procrastinating, yet all he gets out of it is a feeling of guilt. And guilt is a burden upon the mind and conscience that not infrequently is as physically wearing as plain labor.

Yet, if there were no feeling of guilt, there would be no temptation to indulge in this art. I speak. It is the very sense of wrongdoing that is the lure, which creates the desire for indulgence.

Have you ever watched a really good procrastinator practicing his art? It is, in some ways, a fascinating and brilliant thing to observe.

Under Ideal Conditions

The true procrastinator should have nothing save his own conscience to prod. Take, for instance, this matter of going to the office of a morning. If the individual is one of that army which must punch a time clock, with loss of job the penalty for failure, he cannot be a really artistic procrastinator. For there is that economic fear of individual insolvency, which usually follows about something or other. Or, employment, to exercise a compelling pressure and to bring overwhelming reinforcement to the merely ethical proddings of conscience.

Morning procrastination can only be exercised in its full beauty by the man who has no such dependence of time clocks. The man who conducts his own business, or is in such executive position none cares particularly as to his hours of coming and going. Who has duties to perform, but who doesn't have to care, within an hour or so, what time he arrives at his office, provided he gets through those duties during the day, somehow and sometime.

That man may become, if he tries, a true artist at procrastination.

Watch Him, Some Morning

Try to project your imagination into the home of such a man, some morning when his procrastinating faculty is full flower. He will, in the morning, take cold baths and attend "quarterly conversations" in which two-thirds of the persons present shall be single men.

On Three Wheels

Police Judge Joseph N. Ackerman ordered Frank Kratochvil, Cleveland, Ohio, to junk his 19-year-old automobile because Kratochvil drove it two miles on three wheels after a collision had ripped off the fourth.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Glossary of NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—A release from the writers' project of the WPA tells us that the 1939 Almanac for New Yorkers, just published by this agency, contains the information that a gun is called a roscoe in the slang of the New York underworld, that a girl is called a twist, that a crook who introduces an unfortunate victim to a gang is called a stealer and that a knife is called a chiv.

Unfortunately the release was not accompanied by a copy of the almanac itself, so I am unable to say whether this helpful publication tells the meaning of the term "skidoo," but from the samples given in the mimeographed teaser I would guess that it does. It is thoroughly up to date as to the year 1910 and may be helpful to literary archaeologists as a glossary of the obsolete.

It has been so long since a gun was called a roscoe that those who have an ear for the spoken tongue of this country associate the term with button shoes, pegtop pants, the pork pie hat and the reign of the big three in football. True, the gun once was called a roscoe, but that was long before it was called a rod, a term which gave way to the more poetic term equalizer, which, in turn, was challenged by the word manhood. This last was slightly awkward but full of meaning to some. I conceived the idea that a man was not a man without his gun, but with it he was somebody. It didn't have much of a run, but the word heater made good for a while, and in Chicago the term blast furnace or just furnace was used to identify the sawed-off shotgun, obviously because this weapon emitted a blurt of flame and powder ash. I just assume that, however, because I never saw a furnace fired.

Heavily Overdone—A gun also was known as the difference and may still be so called, denoting the margin of power and courage between the man who had one and the man who had none. Of course, everyone has heard a gun called a gat, after the gatling gun, but this one was so heavily overdone by fiction writers of the underworld and in comic strips of the Dauntless Dave type that it came to have a false and pretentious sound, like scam.

The word twist, for girl, never has been current in this country. Our underworld slang is not confined to the underworld, anyway, but seeps into the language of the people who affect slang which they think picturesque and presently find themselves using it without deliberation. Girls have been called twists, chicks, dolls, dolls, broads and a number of other things in the American tongue, but the word twist is an import, said to have come from Australia by the way of San Francisco, and is an abbreviation of "twist and twirl." This Australian lingo still comes to life in print now and again, but never has been spoken to any extent except self-consciously by individuals who were trying to be excessively picturesque. It requires a diligent memory course and lacks the one indispensable requirement of vital slang. It is not instantly plain, but must be puzzled out. Mr. Hyde goes, the best word writer, is an authority on the Australian lingo and has printed a rather extensive vocabulary at times, and the late Tad Dorgan used bits of it occasionally in his cartoons. Hyde and Tad both came from San Francisco.

Must Be A Revival—The word steerer seems to be an old being used in New York now it is playing a revival. I think there was a western melodrama a long time ago called "The Bunco Steerer." Nowadays—and even these terms are old—a steerer would be called a shill or capper. I supposed there are those who call a knife a chiv. There is no law against it, but neither does it need translation in a book at public expense, being of about the same value in language as the word flivver, which I believe was given to the language by T. E. Powers, the Hearst editorial cartoonist, a long time ago.

The almanac also tells us that a private guard is called a screw and that the word jiggers is a cry of alarm denoting the approach of the cops. In fact, it doesn't go that far about the word jiggers, explaining merely that it means look out, but the phrase "jiggers, the cops," certainly needs no translation, to anyone who was committing juvenile mischief in the alleys of the United States as far back as 40 years ago.

I don't want to seem saucy, but I think such a book, a public expense, is just sheer bunkum, to use a slang expression. However—easy go.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

A CORK TREE AND FLOWERS—There are days when I feel as if I'd like to emulate Ferdinand; find me a nice cork tree and sit beneath it and smell the flowers.

The Christmas cards came out badly and probably will not get into the mail at all. Christmas seems so far away and yet, in the closing weeks, comes with such a rush I never am ready.

It is a grand season and I like going along and looking in windows. Even the traffic, snarled and slow, seems a perfect setting. After all, it would be very dull indeed if the streets were empty of traffic at Christmastime.

Even the street cars and buses, filled with package-laden people, seem all right. The weary workers and shoppers move homeward in something like contentment, clutching their bundles and peering out so as not to miss their corner.

One thing worries me. There has been a subtle change in the character of Santa Claus. The old gentleman most assuredly is not a beggar. He is the character who gives great gifts. He manufactures them somewhere near the North Pole and fairy reindeer help him carry them about. He is a giver.

It worries me to see Santa Claus as a beggar. We have started dressing lugubrious gentlemen up in Santa Claus suits and let them stand around and beg for various organizations. It is just one more sign of weakness in the national fiber. It is no wonder children are taking less interest in Santa Claus as a person. When they see him standing around begging on the streets, they begin to worry about what is going to happen on Christmas morning.

Let the old gentleman be with the toys. Perhaps we can have a law against the other.

THE IMAGINATION OF A CHILD—A lot of words have been employed in describing the imagination of various writers of fiction.

None can compare with the imagination of a child. The imagination of a child can take a painted, ten-cent doll and make it into a princess in royal raiment.

The imagination of a child can take second-hand toys distributed by welfare groups and make of them glittering, fairyland objects. The imagination of a child can look at a scene of the Child in the Manger and see the infant Jesus there—not just a painting or a glossy print.

The mind of a child can conceive of Christmas as can no other mind. It is perfectly true there is no really worth-while Christmas without a child. Without a child, Christmas becomes just a day for the exchange of gifts. With a child in the house, the Christmas tree takes on new magic; the lights have a new sheen; the gifts become thrilling things to make eyes widen and the breath come fast. The mind of a child can make pictures the greatest author in the world strives for in vain.

THE GREATEST DOLL STORY—The greatest doll story is not a Christmas story. It is a part of "Les Misérables." When Jean Valjean finds the child Cosette in the evil inn of Thénardier he watches her misery.

She is the slave. She lives in a small cavern in the wall of the house. She sleeps on rags. She suffers from the cold and from hunger. The daughters of the evil woman have dolls.

Jean Valjean watches. There is in the village a beautiful doll. It is the envy of all. Jean Valjean buys it. He gives it to the small child. The evil woman is beside herself with fury and envy. But she cannot drive away the guest who seemed so poor but must be rich.

"Play with the doll," she says to the child who is standing away, looking at the beautiful doll.

"I'm playing," says the child, staring at the doll.

There is some great writing. It is the greatest story involving a doll.

THE SOUTH BUSY—From all reports in the south, this Christmas is to be the greatest business Christmas in the history of business.

In the east, where most of the WPA and FWA and old-age pensions have been spent, there is not so much business, per capita, as in the south. Nowhere else, save in Atlanta, is there such a fine record of bank clearings.

The economic problem No. 1 seems to have gone on a spending spree.

Atlanta also has been cheered by the many gifts left charities in the way of her citizens. There is, more and more, a growing desire to help the unfortunate, to help and mitigate the poverty and the ill health of the less fortunate.

Would it not be well to point out that only in this country is that spirit finding a real expression? And to seek for an answer for it?

Can it be that the essential spirit, or philosophy of democracy, is closely akin to the spirit of the Golden Rule?

The Cop Is Armed to Defend Peace, Not to Take Sides in a Fight

By ROBERT QUILLLEN.

Our country is making emergency plans for the quantity production of military airplanes. The present intention is to build a minimum of 12,000 and train many times that number of pilots. There is also a plan to increase the size and efficiency of the army and almost double the strength of the navy.

Now the cost of all this, while enormous, will be spread over a period of years and need not dismay us. It will be less than we are now handing out to keep our own people pacified.

The more important question is, what are we arming for? Unless the answer to that question is clearly understood, and generally agreed upon, and remembered in all circumstances, we shall again be led like sheep to the slaughter.

Constant repetition and endless propaganda have taught the great majority of our people to believe that all nations are lining up in two opposing groups, one totalitarian or Fascist and the other Democratic.

The Democratic group, which believes in freedom and equality and government by the people, includes England and France, and we must be ready to help them or the Fascist nations will control the world.

That is the story, true in part, which is fed to us without ceasing to keep us emotionally mobilized for another job of saving the world.

But the sad truth is that the present struggle is merely a continuation of the old, old struggle to control Europe. Only the slogans are different. France was on top after the World War; Germany is on top now.

What has our democracy to do with it? France now has a virtual dictator; England has never had democracy as we know it. Both have great empires of subject peoples. Neither has any love for us, and neither would go to war to save us. Did they save the democracy of Czechoslovakia? They like us when they can use us, and curse us when we refuse to rake their chestnuts or ask them to pay.

America stands alone. In a world where might makes right and only the strong are safe, we must arm—not for war, but to insure peace. If we are strong, nobody will attack us; South American nations will feel safe in joining us; we can rest secure and aloof while the great rivals cripple one another.

But the stronger we become, the more the propaganda will urge us to "save democracy" or "help crush the tyrants before they seize the world." The world's shrewdest persuaders will work on our emotions, knowing we are suckers for a "noble cause." Our own leaders, having so much power ready to use, will be sorely tempted to use it.

Our only hope of safety is to remember that those who cry, "Save democracy" have already done it, and those who cry, "Don't let dictators control the world" have no alternative plan but to control it themselves.

BRITISH TO PROBE JAPANESE BANS

Navy Vessel Sent to Tientsin After Restrictions Are Reported.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 19.—(P)—The British naval sloop Grimsby was en route tonight to Tientsin, where Japanese authorities have placed restrictions on foreign consulars.

The Japanese have not yet made formal demands on British and French authorities, but they were enforcing a partial food embargo and other restrictions.

Their action was explained unofficially as an effort to force the French concession in Hankow and the French and British concessions in Tientsin to cease alleged harboring Chinese guerrilla agents and other anti-Japanese elements.

At Hankow, Japanese sentries halted one American motorist and took up his pass because they said he failed to stop for examination of his car. Another American was held up until he disposed of a cabbage he was trying to take out of the French concession.

The restrictions were eased slightly after leading foreigners protested.

Confined to his room for two years through illness, Bertram E. Hill, local shoe repairer, had three water colors at the exhibition of oilstone, Eng., artists.

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II.

"United we stand; divided we fall."

Our distinguished friend Charles J. Haden, of Atlanta, who is an expert on the subject, says that if Americans used as much margarine per capita as Englishmen do the oil of some 5,000,000 bales of cotton would be required for the additional demand. Even though England uses less margarine per capita than any other European country, it uses four times as much per capita as is used in the United States. Of the federal tax which limits the use in this country of margarine and of the cottonseed oil from which margarine is made, the south's late great Senator Oscar W. Underwood said in the senate one day in 1917: "It is an effort to use the great taxing power of this government to destroy a food product in order that a special interest may exact higher prices from the American people."

From Governor Bailey, of Arkansas, we learn of limitations which unfair freight rates place upon the development of aluminum manufacture in his and other southern states even though Arkansas has 96 per cent of the nation's bauxite from which aluminum is made. Senator John H. Bankhead estimates that considerably more than a million additional bales of southern cotton might be consumed each year if the federal government would afford tariff protection against jute to a south already paying bitterly for protection given other products.

ucts and regions. Other southerners are pointing out other external limitations upon or interferences with the growth of this region. The federal wage and hour law, unless it is administered with both science and understanding, can do both labor and capital untold damage here. The new agitation for a federal anti-lynching bill, born of northern local politics and bearing no real good will for anything southern, threatens this region with a hateful accentuation of racial feeling and a bitter complication of the most difficult race problem any land ever had.

For problem and for promise, for our own sakes and for the nation's sake, the south needs to take its stand, take it in the most united way possible. Our voice in the nation's councils and in the only political party in which we have any voice at all is too small now to suffer division. We simply can't afford at this moment to quarrel over the New Deal or to separate into a conservative front and a radical one. The only hope of getting this region's rights recognized and its ambitions served at Washington is a south which can speak with one voice.

And the place for that voice is the next Democratic national convention. Some of us prefer Roosevelt for another term or a Roosevelt disciple to replace him. Some of us want to compromise on Senator Clark, or Senator George, or Cordell Hull, or John Nance Garner. Some of us believe the proper choice should be an out-and-out anti New Dealer like Harry Byrd. But whatever we think or prefer or believe, this is the time to keep it a secret. This is the time to hold every candidacy for the Democratic nomination subordinate in the south to the south's great regional need of bargaining power. This is the time for the south's statesmen and voters and patriots to belong to no one but themselves, to nothing but the south.

Doctors Disclaim Their Yule Party And 'Dr. Thomas'

Warning was issued yesterday by Atlanta police in regard to the operations of a "bunco artist" who, in the guise of a doctor, has been soliciting business and professional houses for contributions for a "Christmas party."

Dr. Carl C. Aven, chairman of the Fulton County Medical Association, reported to police that a man giving his name as Dr. Jim Thomas and claiming to have offices in the Doctors' building had been making a canvass of professional offices for contributions to a Christmas party "to be given by the doctors."

Investigation revealed that there was no person by the name of Thomas registered in the Doctors' building, Dr. Aven said. He added that no Christmas party was planned by the profession.

Happy in Giving Help to Family Down on Its Luck

Smiling happily as they pledge aid to a needy family for a year, officials of the City Employees' Union, Local No. 4, are seen here as they made official their action in "adopting" Opportunity Family No. 2. Seated, left to right, are W. P. Gresham, president; Miss Julia Elliott, recording secretary, and Miss Sam Cleveland, member of the board of directors. Standing, left to right, are R. C. Witcher, vice president; Charles Davis, director; W. A. (Red) Florence, financial secretary; W. B. Walker, vice president, and J. A. Norris, director. The union is chartered by the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, which is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

FAMILY ADOPTED BY CITY EMPLOYEES

Christmas is next Sunday and still there are five more families that must be given their chance in 1939.

It would be easy to care for all of them, if other organizations were as anxious to share as the City Employees Union is. This union, organized in August, 1936, now has between 350 and 400 members. They voted unanimously to avail themselves of the opportunity of helping a family less fortunate than themselves.

The City Employees Union, Local No. 4, is chartered by the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, which itself is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. The local, which has four chapters, is affiliated with the Georgia Federation of Labor and the Atlanta Federation of Trades.

W. P. Gresham is president of Local No. 4, and its other officers are: B. H. Wall, W. B. Walker and R. C. Witcher, vice presidents; W. A. Florence, financial secretary; Miss Julia Elliott, recording secretary, and Mrs. Mabel Terry, treasurer.

Charles M. Davis, J. T. Landers, Miss Sara Cleveland and J. A. Norris comprise its board of directors.

Officials of the four chapters are: No. 1, J. T. Landers, president; H. E. Anderson, secretary; No. 2, T. E. Evans, president; H. L. Wilson, secretary; No. 3, W. B. Walker, president; Mrs. Vera Rasmussen, secretary, and No. 4, W. A. Florence, president, and Mrs. Cora E. Smith, secretary.

Elevating Spirit.
A spirit of true charity prompted the union to "adopt" Opportunity Family No. 2. Its members and its officials will never know the exact identity of Mrs. I. Their donation will be used solely for the benefit of Mrs. I., who is a real person with a real problem. But only the Family Welfare Society, which co-operates with The Constitution in presenting the annual Ten Opportunities, will interest itself in the administration of the money.

This is because the I. family must have an unhampered chance to work out its problem, which the City Employees Union has given to this family by providing the few "balance wheel" dollars needed so badly.

And for this, The Constitution thanks the City Employees Union. Five families are cared for in 1939. The halfway mark has been reached in the work to be done. "M. L." and Constitution executives adopted Family No. 1, the City Employees Union has taken Opportunity No. 2. The "26 Club," organization of traffic policemen here, has adopted again Opportunity No. 4. An anonymous, wealthy Atlanta man gave $720 to provide for Opportunity No. 7, and Mrs. Lettie P. Evans contributed $500 to provide for "Miss Norma," Opportunity No. 9.

Five More Remain.
That leaves Opportunity families No. 3, No. 5, No. 6, No. 8 and No. 10. Are they to face starvation and despair in 1939?

We do not believe Atlantans will let these needy families go upon the rocks. They are all so promising, so deserving of help. Every one of these families has a real chance to become independent again, once more to be self-supporting citizens who in the future will be a credit to the community and will never be a drag upon public relief rolls.

Help this cause along. Any amount of money you can give will aid. No matter what the size of your donation, just rub a little Christmas spirit on it and send it to H. H. Trotter, vice president and business manager of The Constitution, who is treasurer of the Ten Opportunities Fund.

Low of 30 Predicted For Atlanta Today

The thermometer will drop below freezing again this morning, the weather bureau warned yesterday, predicting a low of 30 degrees.

The day will be clear, and steady sunshine is expected to drive the mercury above yesterday's high of 48 degrees.

GOOD MORNING -- By Louie D. Newton

"A LITTLE CHILD..."

Isaiah tells us, "A little child shall lead them," which is the prophet's beautiful statement of the influence of Jesus upon the hearts of men. This truth was strikingly emphasized in a story which a business man gave me a few days ago. He said that he was in the store of a south Georgia merchant, and the head of the business establishment, after buying a bill of goods, said, "I want you to read a poem my little granddaughter wrote and sent to me, taking the pencil lines on school tablet paper from his pocket and, handing it to my friend."

The travelling salesman asked the merchant if he might have the poem for a few days, and he brought it by my study in the original manuscript. I was glad to see it, and I am glad to pass several stanzas of it on to others who may find in this child's message the help which the grandfather undoubtedly got from it:

"When someone does you harm or wrong,
Don't fret and fret,
Just sing a song—
Just be like Jesus and forgive and forget.

The world is full of happy things,
Even when you lose or gain,
Don't fret or grieve—
Just be like Jesus and always sing.

The end of the world is coming some day,
And Jesus will call us from work and play,
So let's do His will, and always say,
Just be like Jesus all the way."

STUDY PROBLEMS, FARMERS URGED BY HARRY BROWN

Serious Thinking Necessary To Improve Lot, Assistant to Wallace Tells Southern Leaders.

"Serious thinking" by farmers themselves is necessary if agriculture obtains "a fair share of the national income," Harry L. Brown, native Georgian and assistant secretary of agriculture, said here yesterday.

In this connection, Brown told southern farm leaders the election of AAA community and county committees is of great significance.

"The men selected on these important committees undoubtedly reflect the thinking of the farmers they represent," he declared in a talk before agricultural executives from Georgia, South Carolina, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Texas and Oklahoma.

"Farmers must have more and more to say about what is to be done and the manner in which a farm program is to be carried out. Farmers throughout the nation are now well aware of the fact that they are all inter-dependent upon themselves and that agriculture, industry and labor all fall or rise together."

"It is the serious thinking of the farmers themselves that has enabled us to launch and maintain a national farm program and the serious thinking of these same farmers is going to be necessary in the future if we are ever to obtain for agriculture a fair share of the national income."

Unity in Thought. Farmers in different parts of the country are not very different in their thinking and in their conclusions regarding what should be done in bringing about a greater balance of the economic forces in their lives and relations to other groups in society.

Brown asserted a "sort of economic democracy" that this country has never known before has developed from the farm program. He mentioned the democratic process applied directly to economic questions and the referendum on economic questions, including marketing quotas.

Two proposals aimed at solution of the cotton growers' problems were offered by I. W. Duggan, na-

Southern Farm Leaders Discuss the AAA

Farm leaders from nine states gathered here yesterday for discussion of the AAA program. In this group, left to right, are Walter S. Brown, of Athens, director of the Georgia agricultural extension service; Ivy W. Duggan, of Washington, D. C., director of the southern division of the AAA, and Harry L. Brown, of Washington, assistant secretary of agriculture. All three are native Georgians.

Any Irrevocable Agreement Draws Fire of Veteran Senator.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—(P)—Senator Norris, Independent, Nebraska, an administration supporter, said he would oppose entry of the United States into any agreement that would bind this country irrevocably to go to war in defense of any South American country.

Commenting on discussion at the Lima, Peru, conference of a proposed pact for mutual defense of western hemisphere nations against outside aggression, Norris said he favored co-operation with South American nations "in every way that would be beneficial both to them and to us."

"But," he added in an interview, "I am opposed to lending them any money to prepare for war and I am opposed to any agreement that would bind us to go into war to carry out such an agreement."

MARYLAND SOLON DIES AT CAPITAL

Representative Gambrell Succumbs of Heart Attack in Doctor's Office.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—(P)—Representative Stephen W. Gambrell, Laurel (Mo.) democrat, died in the office of the capitol physician today after two heart attacks.

The 65-year-old Marylander who came to congress in 1924, collapsed in his own office and died soon after Dr. George Calver, physician, had taken him to the physician's office in the capitol.

Gambrell's death was the 14th in the house during the 15th congress and the sixth this year. Gambrell's secretary said a successor would be chosen in a special election, which Governor Harry W. Nice, of Maryland, has authority to call. If Nice does not call the election, Herbert R. O'Connor, who becomes governor January 1, will have the authority.

WALLACE PREDICTS STRENGTHENED AAA

Secretary Hails Marketing Quota Results as Indorsement of Program.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—(UP)—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, asserting the nation's farmers overwhelmingly favor New Deal crop control legislation, predicted today that the measure will be strengthened and improved next year in order to be of greater benefit to all agricultural workers.

Wallace based his conclusions on the results of crop referenda held among growers of cotton, rice and three types of tobacco. Although only the cotton growers gave the two-thirds majority necessary to begin operation of marketing quotas, he said the referenda "constitute remarkable indorsement" of AAA programs.

Wallace contended the referenda results, in which he said 78.5 per cent of the 1,587,352 producers of the three crops voted for the marketing restrictions, have "proved the absurdity of the charges that the agricultural adjustment act of 1938 imposes a dictatorship upon the farmers."

"Undoubtedly," he said, "many of the farmers who voted against quotas for 1939 in the cotton, tobacco and rice referenda approve other phases of the AAA programs. By their very nature, marketing quotas are the most extreme and controversial phase of the AAA programs."

"The farmers voted on the specific issue whether they wanted a more positive form of control for their commodity. The vote did not involve any other phase of the AAA programs."

There is no doubt that the principles of those programs have the support of a preponderant majority of the farmers. I am confident that these principles are sound, that they will be continued and improved so that they may be of greater benefit to farmers."

Secret Service Forbids Candles On FDR's Tree

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—(UP)—The secret service, which often has irked Presidents while guarding their lives, won its second successive skirmish with Mr. Roosevelt today when it ruled that the White House Christmas tree must be illuminated with electric lights, not at all.

The service rebelled last year against the Roosevelt family tradition of lighting the Christmas tree with candles.

Plans for the Yule observance virtually have been completed down to the minutiae, including the hour at which Mr. Roosevelt will render his customary reading of a condensed version of Dickens' "Christmas Carol."

Mrs. Roosevelt, discussing the plans today, criticized Christmas parties for the poor and needy at which the "well-fed" emphasize their own "kindness" in bringing cheer to unfortunate children and grownups.

Such parties, at which the sponsors demand gratitude of those to whom the gifts and food baskets are presented, make her "squirmy," she said, and added:

"It is we who have the chance to give who should be grateful." Mrs. Roosevelt said that her youngest son, John, and his bride, the former Ann Lindsay Clark, will be unable to attend the White House festivities at which most of the Roosevelt family will be present. She said that John, like all young men who work in department stores, will be too busy at his job in Boston to come to Washington.

Australia's Federal Attorney General Menzies said a national spirit was sadly lacking in Australia and although people talked about their glorious freedom they did little to make use of it.

U. S. GRANTS CHINA ADDITIONAL CREDIT

acts as a revolving fund to facilitate Chinese payments for American merchandise. Morgenthau declined to say how much gold China had here, but indicated at least some of it was bought from the treasury last year with the proceeds of some silver sales.

Today's announcement was an extension of an arrangement first made on July 9, 1937, a few weeks before the present hostilities in China began.

Japanese Position. The $25,000,000 Export-Import Bank loan to China, to be used to buy trucks, gasoline and other "commercial goods" in this country, drew from Arita in Tokyo, the following comment:

"The loan necessarily will lead to prolongation of the (Chinese-Japanese) conflict and naturally to the inconvenience of third powers."

"If, as the United States press reports, it is a political gesture on the part of the United States against Japan, I think that would be a very dangerous political gesture."

At the State Department today it was said merely that no protest had been received here. Regarding today's credits, it was said that the State Department was not consulted.

JAPAN TO END SPECIAL PRIVILEGES

TOKYO, Dec. 19.—(P)—Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita declared today that privileges accorded to foreigners in China nearly 100 years "must gradually be abolished" under the new order Japan is establishing by conquest.

Arita spoke in his first press

REV. BAGGOTT HEADS BAPTIST MINISTERS

Rev. S. M. White Elected Vice President and Rev. S. A. Cowan Secretary.

The Rev. J. L. Baggott, pastor of the College Park Baptist church, was elected president of the Baptist Ministers' Conference at a meeting yesterday morning in the First Baptist church here. The Rev. A. B. Couch is the retiring president.

Others named were the Rev. S. M. White, vice president, and the Rev. S. A. Cowan, secretary re-elected. The Rev. G. C. Light is the retiring vice president.

The conference embraces churches within a radius of 50 miles of Atlanta, and meetings held each Monday morning combine various study programs. At yesterday's meeting a new program for the next six months was divided into two groups of three months each. Church methods will be studied for the first half, while the latter half will witness an innovation in devotional study with each minister giving his most outstanding religious experience. These will feature the Monday meetings, and plans are being formulated for the experiences to be written and compiled for possible publication.

The Rev. T. B. Tribble was named chairman of the program committee, composed of the Rev. P. F. Harvey, the Rev. K. O. White and the Rev. S. M. White.

TVA DENIES 'LOSS,' SAYS IT'S 'EXPENSE'

But Agency's Controller Agrees Outgo Topped Income by $310,171.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—(P)—Congressional investigators heard a lively debate today on whether the Tennessee Valley Authority showed an "operating loss" or a "net expense" of $310,171 for its operations for the 1938 fiscal year.

Representative Wolverton, Republican, New Jersey, contended it was a loss, which would have been even greater had interest on government contributions been taken into account.

E. L. Kohler, TVA controller, insisted he had deliberately chosen the term "net expense" to distinguish TVA operations from those of private business. Both agreed, however, that the authority's power expenses, exclusive of interest, exceeded income by $310,171.

Wolverton brought up the matter while examining Kohler, a witness before the TVA investigating committee, on TVA's financial statement for the year ending June 30, 1938.

"On a profit and loss statement," Kohler asked, "would this item represent profit or loss?"

"It is not a profit or loss statement," Kohler replied. There is no compulsion for TVA ever to show a profit.

"There is a compulsion to show congress a profit or loss," Wolverton snapped.

"We would not be able to give a profit and loss statement to congress because it is not a commercial venture," the witness said, adding that in government accounting any agency that shows an excess of income over outgo pays it into the Treasury. Conversely, he said, operating deficits are made up by congressional appropriations.

"Am I justified in telling congress that the controller of TVA doesn't know whether TVA is making a profit?" Wolverton asked.

"I think you are," Kohler replied calmly.

American railroads purchased $287,589,000 worth of equipment and materials during the first nine months of 1938, a decline of 60 per cent compared with the same period in 1937.

conference since he became foreign minister last October 29. His statement on the privileges of Occidentals in China came in answer to questions on the probable fate of extraterritoriality—under which nationals of the United States, Britain and other powers enjoy special immunities and rights—and foreign concessions.

"It is my belief extraterritoriality must gradually be abolished," he said. "In principle, this must also apply to concessions, but that will be a matter of time."

He also declared "some articles of the nine-power pact seem obsolete."

In the nine-power pact, China, Japan, the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, Portugal and the Netherlands pledged respect for China's territorial integrity and maintenance of the open door for trade.

Last November 2 Japan announced to the world her intention of establishing a "new order" in the Far East which would have for its foundation "a tripartite relationship of mutual aid and co-operation among Japan, Manchukuo and China in the political, economic, cultural and other fields."

In a further clarification of Japan's new policy on December 9, Arita was said to have informed the United States and Great Britain the principle of the open door in China had vanished.

The foreign minister in a prepared statement handed out at the press conference reiterated "the imperative necessity" of establishing a new order in the Far East for the grounds of defense against Communism and the necessity to follow "the world-wide tendency" toward economic blocs.

He declared Japan believed "in the principle of equality of commercial opportunity" but said "it is imperative that economic activities of the powers should be subjected to certain restrictions dictated by requirements of national defense and economic security."

Legion Will Give Grady Physicians Blood as Present Treat 3 Children To a Little Girl Burned in Homes

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 19.—(P)—If there are still any Scrooges this story is intended to bring them around to the Christmas spirit, or add further to their gloom.

Little Gladys Avaritt, 10, wants only one thing in the world for Christmas—some blood that will keep her alive. She wants to live "and live."

And Gladys, whose big, brave smile brings tears to hospital attendants, is going to get her Christmas present. Legionnaires of the Nashville American Legion post will go to the hospital tomorrow to offer transfusions.

"I don't want Santa Claus to bring me anything this year 'cept to make me well," Gladys said today. "Of course, I always wanted a little doll, but I don't mind at all if I don't get one. If I could just go back home again."

Post Commander Douglas White issued a call for blood donors in the Legion and several offered to have their blood tested. White is sure his strapping Legionnaires will bring Gladys her Christmas present.

The department of public works in New Brunswick has announced it will keep at least 1,015 miles of main highway open to automobile traffic throughout the winter. Last year, owing to mildness, the department was able to keep open about 3,500 miles.

THIRD TERM VOTE BY SENATE OPPOSED

McNary, G. O. P. Leader Against Placing Upper House on Record.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—(UP)—Senate Republican Leader Charles L. McNary, of Oregon, one of the party's ablest strategists, and Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, of Michigan, potential candidate for the G. O. P. presidential nomination in 1940, today disagreed over the propriety of placing the senate on record on a third term for President Roosevelt.

McNary, who is credited with devising the strategy whereby senate Republicans allowed Democratic nominees to win reelection to kill Mr. Roosevelt's supreme court enlargement bill, contends that it is none of the senate's business if the chief executive seeks a third term. He said that he personally is opposed to the third-term move, but pointed out that he voted against the L. Follette resolution in 1928 which held that departure from the two-term precedent would be "unwise, unpatriotic and fraught with peril to our free institutions."

Vandenberg agreed that the senate is in a "rather curious business" when it departs from its own functions to advise presidential candidates. He also agreed that if this were the first time that the senate had been asked to a third-term expression, it would be "none of our business." He pointed out that the issue has come before the chamber twice before "under not dissimilar circumstances" and added:

"That creates a totally different situation in which silence today might be construed as senatorial consent."

AIRPLANE WHEEL CLUE TO MYSTERY

Submerged Wreckage Found Nearby Off Honolulu.

HONOLULU, Dec. 19.—(P)—An airplane wheel found on the beach near where fishermen discovered submerged wreckage yesterday was identified today as part of the army plane of First Lieutenant Watson M. Frutcher, whose pursuit craft plummeted into the Pacific last Wednesday.

The identification strengthened belief of fellow officers that the plane wreckage snagged by fishermen's nets three and one-half miles off Kaena Point, Oahu Island, yesterday might be that of Frutcher's plane, which fell in flames off Kahu Point, about 21 miles away.

PROMINENT MEN FACE INDICTMENT IN COSTER SCANDAL

Washington Official Says
Fraud Has Widespread Ramifications; Gun Deal
Contract Is Described.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—(P)—The indictment of persons of "great prominence" was predicted by a federal official today shortly after an executive of the McKesson & Robbins drug firm testified its president, F. Donald Coster-Philip Musica, had contemplated a gigantic international deal in rifles and ammunition.

The prediction was made by Brien McMahon, assistant United States attorney general, who came here from Washington to co-ordinate the investigation of federal agencies into the mystery of the multiple activities of Coster-Musica and the firm's missing $18,000,000 of assets.

"Widespread Ramifications." "This case has more widespread ramifications than any other fraud case in my memory," McMahon said after a conference with various federal officials.

The testimony linking Coster-Musica to gun-running plans was offered by Frederick Wingersky, of Boston, a McKesson & Robbins vice president in charge of law and labor relations. Costa-Musica, he said, ordered him to draft a contract for the purchase of 100,000 Lee-Enfield rifles and 100,000,000 rounds of cartridges.

The purchase, however, was not made so far as he knew, Wingersky said.

Wingersky testified at a hearing in the office of State Attorney General John J. Bennett Jr., Assistant State Attorney General Ambrose V. McCall told Wingersky to report to Gregory F. Noonan, acting United States attorney, since that phase of the investigation of the $18,000,000 firm lay outside the state's jurisdiction.

The contract to buy arms, Wingersky testified, was drawn last May.

Coster-Musica Buried. While McMahon and other federal officials were conferring in the federal building, Coster-Musica, who killed himself last Friday in his Italianate villa at Fairfield, Conn., after he was revealed as the "brains" of a swindle 25 years ago, was buried from a Brooklyn funeral home.

Two of the three brothers, who masked their identity and joined him in the McKesson & Robbins firm, attended the funeral by special court permission—George Varnard-Arthur Musica, Canadian agent for the firm, and Robert Dietrich-Musica, who worked in the shipping department at Fairfield. Both were handcuffed to federal deputies.

The third brother, George E. Dietrich-Musica, assistant treasurer and assistant vice president of the firm, in charge of the crude drugs department which built up the illicit or fictitious $18,000,000 assets was brought down from New Haven, Conn., but did not attend the funeral. The board of directors of McKesson & Robbins formally removed him from office today.

Coster-Musica was interred in Cypress Hills cemetery, but his widow, Carol, who had spent the night at the funeral home, did not go to the graveyard. At the cemetery an attendant said the body was placed in a mausoleum.

Radio Amateur Picks Up SOS In Indian Ocean

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—(P)—A message from the SS "Ile Bourbon," reporting it was stranded with 48 persons aboard at St. Paul islands, in the South Indian ocean, between Africa and Australia, was received today by Chief Pharmacist's Mate Edward R. Gibson on his amateur radio set in Bremerton, Wash.

Gibson forwarded the message to the Navy Department, and naval communications relayed it to Mediterranean waters.

BURGLAR SUSPECT IS SHOT BY POLICE

Officers Wound Man Seen
Jumping From Window.

A negro burglar suspect, Oscar Bullard, 38, of 23 Electric avenue, was held at police headquarters yesterday after he was shot in an encounter with officers Sunday night. Another suspect, believed wounded in the leg, escaped.

Radio Patrolmen J. C. Varnum and F. A. Rhodes captured Bullard after they saw him leap in his stocking feet from the window of the home of Mrs. Henry G. Wagner, of 603 Rankin street, N. E., according to their report. He tried to flee, but the policemen opened fire at Angier avenue near Glen Iris drive.

The second suspect was believed wounded by Radio Patrolmen Turner Wallace and W. F. Jones when they joined a burglar chase on Highland avenue, W. G. Windham, of 428 Highland avenue, N. E., said he saw the negro prying open a window at the Windham home.

BANDIT PULLS TRIGGER BUT BULLIT'S A DUD

D. R. Lewis, manager of a store at 147 Simpson street, was thankful yesterday that a robber's gun failed to fire.

A negro bandit entered the store, held up Lewis and a clerk, J. W. Bruce, and took $15 from the cash register. Later he ordered the two victims to the rear of the store, according to police. Lewis grabbed at the gun and the bandit pulled the trigger—but it failed to discharge.

Three Musica Brothers in Their First Pose Together

A short week ago these three men were respected officials of the McKesson & Robbins Company. Federal authorities had them in custody yesterday as they delved into the ramifications of fraud in which they apparently were linked. In this picture, the first taken of them together, are George Dietrich-Musica, George Varnard-Musica (center) and Robert Dietrich-Musica, right.

'President's Children Should Work,' First Lady Answers Her Critics

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—(P)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt asked the American people today whether they wanted a president's children to be idlers and whether they thought his wife should give up all her own interests.

The first lady, just elected a director of the Boston insurance firm which her son, James, helped found, told her press conference she had received letters contending that members of a President's family should restrict their own activities completely during the President's term.

For herself, Mrs. Roosevelt said that a do-nothing policy would have meant giving up a great many interests.

She ran a furniture factory and taught in a New York girls' school before Mr. Roosevelt was elected president. She had begun a writing career which since has been expanded to include two books and a newspaper column.

If the people decided they wanted the President's family to restrict its activities completely, she said, a woman might some day re-

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 19.—(P)—Pope Pius XI spent a restless night but Vatican circles reported he showed no special harm today from a long and tiring ceremony over which he presided yesterday.

The 81-year-old pontiff, who had refused to curtail his activities since a severe heart attack November 25, was prevailed upon to spend today in absolute rest.

40 STILLS SEIZED BY STATE AGENTS

November Raids Stopped
2,435 Gallons Weekly,
Commissioner Is Told.

State revenue agents last month destroyed 40 liquor stills capable of producing 2,435 gallons per week, Control Chief L. C. Groves reported yesterday.

State tax on this amount of liquor would have been $2,435 per week, Groves said in his report to Revenue Commissioner T. Grady Head.

Groves attributed the drop in still seizures in November to "cold weather cutting down still operations," fewer stills in the state and the fact that state agents were in a federal school 12 days of November.

Fifteen vehicles were confiscated and agents participated in 1,151 investigations during the month.

HUNGARY DRAFTS ANTI-JEWISH LAWS

Rumania Turns Toward Colonization Plans To Solve
Semitic Problem.

BUDAPEST, Dec. 19.—(P)—Hungary drafted new anti-Semitic legislation today while Rumania developed a colonization plan in two movements for solution of the Jewish problem in southeastern Europe.

The proposed Hungarian laws, to be introduced in parliament Friday, will tighten up the measures which now limit the participation of Jews in business and professions to 20 per cent of the total engaged in any calling.

In Bucharest, the Rumanian foreign office disclosed that a plan to assist Jews to settle in Palestine and various British possessions was the subject of diplomatic discussions.

The immediate objective was to develop a colonization scheme for 150,000 Rumanian Jews now in the eastern provinces of Bucovina, Bessarabia and Transylvania.

Ultimately the project would be extended to a greater number of Rumania's 1,075,000 Jews, it was indicated.

(In London, a British official said the Rumanian government had made "certain vague inquiries.")

Bucharest reports said wealthy Jews were being asked to help finance the plan.

The Rumanian ministry of interior at the same time announced the nationalization of 379 inns and 766 retail tobacco shops operated by Jews in Bucovina. Jewish leaders charged the action was taken to persuade the Jews to emigrate.

In Hungary, the government studied both Italian and German laws for regulation of Jews and it was understood that Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano, who arrived here today on a visit, was making a report on Italy's experiences.

RECORD ORANGE CROP.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—(P)—The Agriculture Department predicted today the nation's orange crop for 1938-1939 would reach 78,281,000 boxes, a record high. This figure is five per cent above the previous record production of 74,476,000 boxes in 1937-1938.

Atlanta's Dog Honor Graduate Missing 3 Weeks

Two pals, a boy and a dog who were graduated from school together, were separated last night.

In 1937, "Dynamite," a black and brown collie, received his diploma along with his master, Forrest Jones, of 110 Fairview avenue, Decatur, at regular graduation exercises of Ponce de Leon school. The dog was "graduated" cum magna laude because of his unusual devotion to his master.

The incident attracted attention throughout the country. Even after Forrest entered high school Dynamite met him every afternoon after classes. About three weeks ago he failed to make his customary appearance, and now Forrest is worried for fear the dog may have been poisoned or shot.

The young master appealed to anyone knowing the whereabouts of his pal to call Dearborn 4893, or write to 110 Fairview avenue, Decatur. A reward is offered for any information concerning the dog.

Santiago Mourns Arrival of Ship With Nazi Cadets

SANTIAGO, Cuba, Dec. 19.—(P)—Ancient cannon at Santiago's El Moro fortress roared a customary salute and everything looked festive to the 500 officers and men of the German school ship "Schleswig-Holstein" for a brief period today.

Then things got cloudy. Wishful for "heils," or at least a "viva" or two, they came ashore to find resentful looks and a mass demonstration of mourning at their advent.

Thirty thousand workmen lined the docks and downtown streets, each with a black ribbon in his lapel.

It was an official "demonstration of displeasure" ordered by the Federation of Labor of Santiago.

40-PLACE PLANES GO BEGGING IN U. S. DESPITE ADVANCES

21-Passenger Ships Not Always Filled; New Air Board Policies Awaited; Europe May Benefit.

By ALICE ROGERS HAGER.
(Copyright, 1938, by The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Four-engine land transport planes, latest product of American aeronautical genius, are going begging in the United States.

Hailed as a major advance in aircraft building by experts at home and abroad, and expected to be in use on domestic airlines by the early part of 1940, neither the new Douglas DC4, popularly known as the "Flying Hotel," nor the Boeing "Stratoliner," first of the ships to be built for high altitude passenger carrying, has at present any American purchasers. Instead, it will probably be on European lines that they will see their first service.

Empty Seats.
With present airline equipment of the 21-passenger type running half to two-thirds full a good part of the time, there isn't much encouragement to the operators to spend a couple of hundred thousand dollars apiece for 40-passenger ships that will require major changes—and expensive ones—in servicing and overhaul machinery.

With European companies far behind those of the United States in equipment, except where Lockheed and Douglas are in use, there is reason for them to turn to American manufacturers. So much emphasis has been laid on military craft abroad that commercial development has lagged badly.

There are two reasons behind the failure of the lines to order the four-engine planes. From a political standpoint, the new civil aeronautics authority has still not defined its policies with regard to rates and certain fundamentals of operating practice. Until this uncertainty is cleared up, capital cannot be induced to come into new airline financing.

Foreign Orders.
In the meantime, the American aircraft plants are not in such a bad position as it would seem. The market abroad is very active. Boeing has had at least a dozen foreign visitors and Douglas as many. Both the Dutch and the French are almost certain buyers of four-engine equipment.

Office Wife Refuses To Let Her Girl Testify About Life With Employer

Mrs. Dull Doesn't Want Her Children 'Mixed Up' in Trial.

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Mrs. Fern Patricia Dull, charged with murder in the shooting last October 17 of her employer-sweetheart, Attorney William Holbrook, refused today to permit her 15-year-old daughter, Gloria, to testify in her behalf.

Although Gloria and her brother, Lester, 17, have attended all sessions of the trial, Defense Attorney H. T. Dewhurst said the blond, 34-year-old mother did not wish her children "mixed up" in the proceedings. The defense had planned to put the girl on the stand to testify on her observations during a stay in the house Mrs. Dull and Holbrook occupied together. Dewhurst said the girl had "very valuable information."

Defense witnesses testified today to bursts of temper to which Holbrook allegedly was subject. The defense contends Holbrook was subject to violent irrational spells that endangered Mrs. Dull. The Rev. Simon Cornany, a

Blind Children 'See' Santa Claus At Lions' Annual Christmas Party

There Were a Few Misty Eyes Among the Club Members, But Young Guests' Happiness Made It a Joyous Occasion Just the Same.

By RALPH T. JONES.

They couldn't see Santa Claus, many of them, as we more fortunate ones see him. But Santa was there, in person, and who shall doubt they saw him, with the eyes of the spirit, more truly than many who see him only as a fat man in red coat and a plumed white whiskers? For Santa himself is, in truth, a spirit and, thereby, one of those facts of life which are true and more real than the material things we can see and touch and hear.

The occasion was the annual Christmas party given by the Lions club of Atlanta at the Henry Grady hotel yesterday at noon. And the honor guests were two classes of children from the Calhoun Street school, the class for the blind and the sight-conservation group. The second class is for those with some vision but who are so handicapped they cannot study and compete with youngsters with normal eyes.

The highlight of the party came when Santa Claus, all dressed in red and white, came dancing into the great dining room, jingling his bells and calling greetings to all the young guests. There was, at that moment, a look in eyes, even those sightless, which bespoke a joy and excitement that made many older eyes seem unduly moist, that made many men wipe misted glasses clear, or use all-enveloping handkerchiefs to ostentatiously cover a sudden sneeze.

There was a great, lighted Christmas tree, with scores of gaily-wrapped presents all around it. On each present was the name of a girl or boy and, as Santa called the names, volunteers from among the usually staid businessmen in the organization carried those packages to the boys and girls who could not see to walk up and get them themselves. Then, after all the gifts were distributed—each child received three or four or five—there was a program by the children themselves. One of their number was gently led to the grand piano and she played the grand old strains of "Dixie," while the youngsters stood and sang in clear, young voices.

The next number required more escorts to the piano, for it was a quartet which proved that material vision is not necessary for the inner vision of music. They sang "Bells of St. Mary's," as, Chairman Joe Wolfe declared, it "had never been sung before." And there was a boy who did grand solo work on an electric guitar. The meeting was also featured by a musical program provided by the Salvation Army, with Colonel Robert Young, of the Army, in charge. Colonel Young is chaplain of the Lions Club.

Mrs. Young delivered the special Christmas message.

STEPS INTO PROPELLER, GROOM-TO-BE INJURED

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 19.—(AP) When John Gearing, 21, of Illinois, Mo., a tourist attracted by aircraft, stepped into a spinning propeller here yesterday, it meant postponement of his wedding, scheduled for last night. Gearing, his fiancée and a party of friends were en route to Tampa, Fla., when they stopped at the North Augusta air field, attracted by a barnstorming plane. After a brief ride, Gearing stepped from the cockpit and accidentally turned directly into the path of the wooden propeller.

ROOSEVELT MAPS 1939 LEGISLATION

Program Centers on Armament Funds and Expanded Social Security.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—(AP)

President Roosevelt busied himself today with the preparation of a congressional program which, thus far, emphasizes the bigger naval and military expenditures and proposals for an expansion of the social security system.

In addition, legislation to help the railroads out of their present sorry financial plight and a public health program, directed at increasing the nation's hospital facilities and providing medical care for low-income groups, also had a place upon the chief executive's list.

He discussed the defense situation today with Louis Johnson, assistant secretary of war; Chairman Edward J. Noble and Robert Hinkley, of the Civil Aeronautics Authority; and Aubrey Williams, deputy administrator of WPA. They declined to disclose the details of the conference.

Meanwhile, however, Senator Adams, Democrat, Colorado, a powerful member of the senate appropriations committee, asserted that congress should give thought to balancing the budget rather than to an expensive defense program.

White House officials revealed that the President planned to address a special message to congress on the social security act asking that it be extended to groups not now included.

This announcement followed quickly upon the publication of recommendations of the Social Security Advisory Council proposing the ultimate extension of federal old-age insurance to the largest possible proportion of gainfully employed population.

During the day, Mr. Roosevelt talked over the troubles of the railroads with two key members of a committee which is now preparing a report on the subject for the President. They were Carl Gray, vice chairman of the Union Pacific, and George Harrison, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives' Association.

Another of the President's callers was Miss Josephine Roche, chairman of the interdepartmental committee to co-ordinate health and welfare activities.

PEE WEE JOBLESS; STORE IS CLOSED

Revenue Commissioner Charges Liquor Deliveries, Sales Exceeding Limit.

Pee Wee Burns—alias A. T. Jean—was looking for a job last night.

The one-time "big shot" bootlegger found himself unemployed after agents of the State Revenue Commission closed a liquor store where Burns was working as an $18-a-week clerk. The store, located at 759 Marietta street, was owned by Henry Moss.

T. Grady Head, state revenue commissioner, authorized closing of the store, charging that it had been making deliveries and selling more than two quarts per person per day in violation of state regulations. Operations at the store ceased temporarily last Friday, but later were resumed when it developed the writ was made out in the name of another owner. Revenue Agents Roy Shields, Joe Jeff Moore and D. R. Longino carried out the new orders yesterday.

Agents also closed Frank's Liquor Store at 1027 Peachtree street. They charged that the telephone number in Henry Moss' store was registered in the name of Frank Wallace, owner of the Peachtree store. Hearings on both cases will be held before Commissioner Head at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Burns said he was considerably distressed about the future as the result of his unemployment. He went to work as a clerk in the store about a month ago. "I've just got to have a job," he said. "My rent is coming due and I don't know what I'm going to do. I'd be willing to drive a truck or do almost anything if I could just find a job."

WPA 'Gypsy' Gone Again—Minus $100

The gypsy who went on "relief" in Hapeville's city park Saturday by chopping up WPA project signs, yielded to his nomadic instincts yesterday. He failed to appear in recorder's court at 6 o'clock last night, and Recorder C. McNeill Leach forfeited his $100 bond.

Nobody knew the whereabouts of the fugitive, who had given his name as Gus Stanley, 38, of 39 Harlem avenue, Chicago. Court officials visioned him huddled around his camp fire in some lonely spot. They hoped he wasn't burning WPA wood. Chief J. W. Jones, who said he found Stanley making kindling out of the WPA signs in the park, didn't think the government was obligated to furnish wood for the gypsy's fire. So Chief Jones charged him with disorderly conduct, destroying United States property and ordered him to answer the charges in recorder's court.

Atlantan Takes Marine Corps School Course

Lieutenant Raymond G. Davis, of Atlanta, is one of five Georgia officers now studying in the marine corps basic school in Philadelphia, it was reported yesterday.

Davis is the son of Raymond R. Davis, 115 Forrest avenue, and graduated from Georgia Tech last June with honors in chemical engineering. He was commissioned after his graduation with Edward H. Hurst, of Perry.

Lawrence V. Patterson, of Milledgeville; Freeman W. Williams, of Macon, and Harvey B. Atkins, of Jesup. All of the Georgia lieutenants will be given regular marine corps assignments at the completion of their studies next May.

CAPACITY THROG APPLAUDS PAGEANT

Every Seat Taken and Many Stand—7,000 Crowd Into Auditorium.

Another capacity audience jammed the city auditorium last night to see the final performance of "The Divine Promise," a municipal Christmas pageant with a cast of 1,500.

Councilman John A. White, chairman of arrangements, estimated approximately 7,000 persons crowded into the auditorium to witness the Biblical characterization. Every seat was taken, and many stood.

More than 8,000 saw the initial presentation Sunday, and hundreds of others were turned away. The performance last night was broadcast.

White said he regretted it would be impossible to stage another showing of the pageant. He said he had received many requests for another presentation and when he asked those in the audience last night if they wanted a repetition of the pageant next year, the applause was deafening.

"I think this pageant has started one of the greatest civic and religious awakenings we have had in a decade," White declared.

The production was adapted and directed by Eugene A. Bergman, WPA recreation supervisor. It included 24 scenes and a score of musical numbers, beginning with "The Creation" as Episode I and closing with "The Manger." Last night's performance was described as being even better than Sunday's presentation.

'FASTING' DEAN TO HOUSE PARISH

Rev. Israel To Be Rector of Church.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 19.—(AP) A new Episcopal parish with the Rev. Israel Harding Noe, deposed "fasting" dean of St. Mary's cathedral, as its rector, is being organized in Memphis, the Commercial Appeal said it had learned on good authority tonight.

The newspaper said the parish would be named "St. James." The petition for its organization, the story said, is being circulated in the city and already bears the signatures of "50 leading Episcopal business executives, professional men, attorneys and physicians, and prominent businessmen."

NEW CHURCH FORMED.

ELBERTON, Ga., Feb. 19.—(AP) Elberton's first Lutheran church was organized yesterday with 30 members. Dr. H. J. Black, of Savannah, president of the Georgia-Alabama synod, preached the initial sermon. The Rev. M. R. Wingard, of Greenwood, S. C., was named pastor.

MERCHANT'S KILLER SOUGHT AT GIBSON

Body, With Bullet Wound in Head, Is Found in Wooded Section.

GIBSON, Ga., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Police pursued vague clues today in a search for the slayer of Millard C. Chalker, merchant, whose body was found Saturday night in a wooded section near a highway, a bullet wound in the head.

Captain A. L. Hutchins, of the highway patrol, said Chalker's car was found a short distance away. It was near a highway bridge, which had been barricaded with timbers.

A check of the merchant's receipts showed he had taken about $160 with him when he closed his store on Gibson's principal street and started for home Saturday night. Neither the money nor his watch has been found.

The body was found a short distance from his home. Sheriff's officers attempted to use bloodhounds yesterday, but so many persons had walked over the site the dogs were unable to pick up a trail.

30 DIE IN CRASH OF TRAINS IN BRAZIL

Express and Freight Collide 70 Miles North of Rio de Janeiro.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Officials of the Central do Brasil railway said 30 persons were known to be dead today in an express-freight train collision 70 miles north of Rio de Janeiro.

Lauro Miranda, the line's traffic chief, said the toll might be increased, since wrecking crews had not completed search of the wreckage.

Miranda said identification of the victims of the disaster, one of the worst in the railway's history, was proceeding with difficulty because of the mangled condition of the bodies.

Authorities had not yet determined the cause of the collision.

Mrs. George Gould Sends Book Of Verse as Christmas Greeting

By Sally Forth

YESTERDAY'S mail brought to Sally Forth the most charming of Christmas messages—a book of verse written by Mrs. George H. Gould, of New York, and printed privately as a greeting to her legion of friends. You will remember Mrs. Gould, not only for her extensive philanthropic program, from her visit here three years ago when Oglethorpe University conferred upon her an honorary degree. Southern friends made up that occasion recall with pleasure the gentle, kindly manner and the noble spirit of Cora Smith Gould.

Appropriately bound in coral parchment and bearing upon the cover a tropical scene, the book of verse is entitled, "Dream Land on the Isle of Nassau in the Bahamas." Within it, it tells in lilting rhyme of the gay holidays the author has spent upon the enchanting isle, customs, and the people there, all of which she sees through the eyes of one who appreciates the sky's crimson glow, the low whisper of the pines, and the slow smile of the native.

The volume is illustrated throughout with charming pen-and-ink sketches, depicting in gay scenes the entrancing life which awaits a vacationist on the Bahamas. Mrs. Gould has dedicated her book of verse to her handsome son, Ormond Gould, who accompanied her to Atlanta, you remember, and to her dear friend, Willard Daniels Saulnier.

In New York, Mrs. Gould makes her home at the Plaza hotel. But when winter winds begin to blow, she hurries away to warmer climes, always accompanied by her devoted son, to whom she owes much, if not all, of her literary inspiration.

For instance, witness the brief introduction she pens in verse on the fly leaf of the "Dream Land" which she addresses "To My Friends":

"One day in my boudoir resting the while,
Enter my son, with his contagious smile.

Handing to me a book of poems,
he said,
'You could do better; which vanity fed.

Like a challenge it rang—I thought to try
Before inspiration had passed me by."

And in proof of the value she places on Ormond's opinion, she closes her introduction:

"What of my son? If he says this is 'better,'
Then nothing adverse will in the least matter."

THE well-known hunt region around Warrenton, Va., provided the setting for the debut party at which Doris Becker, a former Atlantan, was presented to society last week. Given at the fashionable North Wales Club, the ball assembled prominent social figures from the near-by national capital, Virginia, and New York. Doris, you know, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. J. Becker, who formerly resided here, and who now divide their time between their home in the District of Columbia and their country estate in Gainesville, Va.

For their daughter's coming-out party the Beckers took over a large portion of the North Wales Club. According to Sally's Washington scout, the party should be recorded as one of the most brilliant functions ever given in that section of the country.

The supper party following the ball resembled a hunt breakfast with the masculine guests wearing "pink coats," appropriate to the hunt section. Doris' titian beauty was offset by her exquisite gown fashioned of filmy white net made off-the-shoulder style, and trimmed with a wide lace ruching. A garland of gardenias encircled her reddish gold hair and she carried an old-fashioned bouquet of violets surrounded by gardenias.

Numerous dinner parties were given prior to the ball in Warrenton and in the District of Columbia. The debutantes from Washington and their escorts motored to Warrenton for the brilliant debut party in two huge chartered buses.

CLIMBED and heard at the Christmas party at which Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Porter were hosts Sunday afternoon: Brilliant holiday decorations enhancing the beauty of the interior of the handsome Porter residence on Tuxedo road. . . . Jovial Herbert Porter dispensing that gracious hospitality for which he is famed.

Mrs. Porter receiving guests wearing a stunning gown of aquamarine satin. . . . Mrs. Lon Grove describing current plays which she recently attended at Broadway playhouses. . . . Mrs. Harrison Jones escorted by Mr. Jones and their son, Gordon, whom she calls "my two boys."

Mr. and Mrs. William Barnwell dashing in late from another holiday party. . . . Mrs. Eugene Haynes becomingly attired in a smart Christmas red ensemble. . . . Mrs. Eugene Harrington admiring a novel cellophane Christmas tree occupying an important corner in the drawing room. . . . Mrs. Collett Munger, of Dallas, Texas, a popular holiday visitor, exclaiming over the beauty and merriment marking Atlanta's social gaieties. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunt, whom Sally considers one of Atlanta's happiest married couples, chatting over the egg nog cups. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Collett Munger Jr. proudly telling plans made for their infant son's first Christmas. . . . Mrs. Ryburn Clay wearing a cluster of orchids on her mink coat. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Paul Seydell bidding farewell to friends before departing tomorrow for Nassau.

Judy King wearing a modish black hat armed with a Chanterelle feather. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Ben Smith caught under the mistletoe. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Osburn hurrying away to meet their daughter, Jane, who arrived late Sunday from Sarah Lawrence School in New York. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Madison Bell and their son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Ashcraft, forming a congenial family group at the party. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Richardson Sr. telling of plans for a family Christmas at their home, "Broadlands," on Pace's Ferry road. . . . Glamorous Mrs. Charles Bialocks chatting with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bellman on the stairway. . . . Exclamations of "Merry Christmas" as guests departed from the gay party.

Mrs. Max Goldstein, who was before her marriage Mrs. Mary Wallace Turner, daughter of Mrs. Odalite Wallace. The ceremony was quietly solemnized recently at the Temple on Peachtree road by Dr. David Marx.

Prominent Guests From Out of Town To Attend Shumaker-Garrett Wedding

Among important events scheduled for today is the marriage of Miss Constance Shumaker to Sims Garrett Jr., of Washington, D. C. The ceremony takes place at 6 o'clock this evening in Emory Theology chapel and will assemble a number of prominent Atlantans and out-of-town guests.

Among the latter will be Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Connolly, of Cuthbert; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Carter Burgin, of Cuthbert; Congressman Emmett Owen, of Griffin; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Bialock, of Griffin; Mr. and Mrs. Sims Garrett Sr., of Charing, Ga.; Congressman Robert Ramspeck and Mrs. Ramspeck, of Washington, D. C., and Decatur; Congressman Stephen Pace and Mrs. Pace and their son and daughter, Martha and Stephen Pace, of Americus; Miss Celia Lucas, of Macon; Frank Chappell, of Americus; E. C. Stephens, of Buena Vista; Thomas Callaway, of Covington; James Powell, of Washington, D. C.; Mr. and Mrs. James Lowe and Miss Martha Lowe and Warren Williams, of Americus; Misses Queenie Baker and Lois Gholston, of Elberton; Charles Clements, of Buena Vista; Miss Harriet Coley, of Daytona Beach, Fla.; Misses Alyce Powell and Helen Powell, of Washington, D. C.; Robert Cochran, of Rupert; Clark Duncan and William Matthews, of Buena Vista.

Miss Shumaker and Mr. Garrett were honor guests last evening at a dinner party at which the latter's mother, Mrs. Sims Garrett Sr., and his brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Carter Burgin, were hosts at the Biltmore hotel. The dinner followed the wedding rehearsal and the guests included members of the bridal party and out-of-town guests.

White roses and valley lilies predominated in the beautiful table decorations and alternating with the lovely floral arrangements were silver candelabra holding gleaming white tapers. Miniature brides marked the places reserved for the masculine guests and miniature grooms designated the ladies' places.

Since the announcement of her betrothal to Mr. Garrett several weeks ago, Miss Shumaker has been honor guest at innumerable social gaieties.

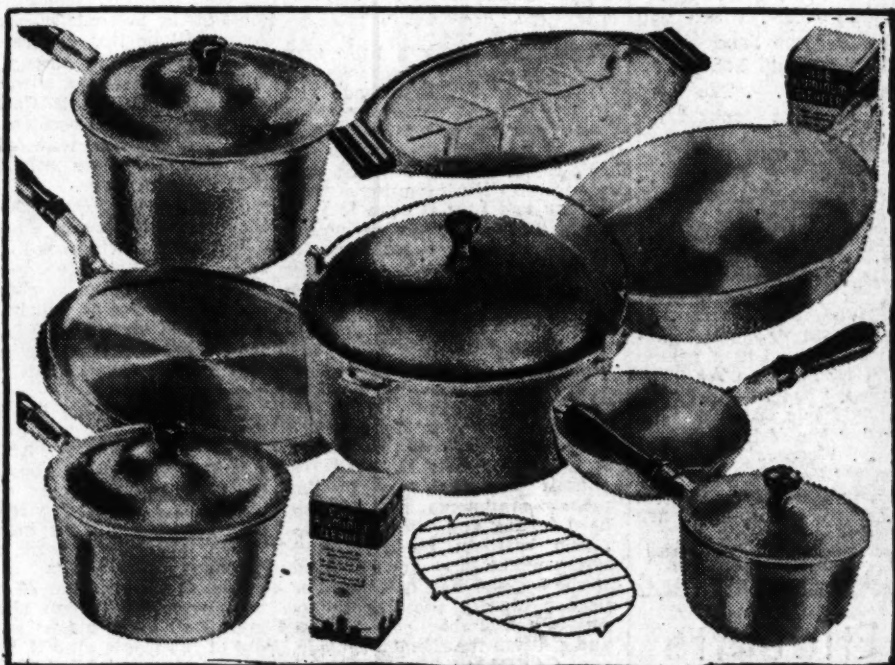

Esquire Club.

Exclusive Esquire Club will entertain its members this evening with a yuletide dinner to be given at the country estate of John Wen Lundeen.

Aperitif Party.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lindsey Conner will honor Miss Rosannah Milam, of Cartersville, Ga., with an aperitif party at their home on Club drive Wednesday afternoon. One hundred guests are invited.

Slimness Requires Work--Even for Fiction Heroine

By Ida Jean Kain.

It did us good to find out from Katherine Brush that the heroines of fiction are human after all. Usually, to hear the authors tell it, these girls never, never have the slightest thing wrong with them and are beautiful at all times—even at 7 o'clock in the morning!

But Miss Brush is a highly original writer who doesn't flinch from the truth that the glamor girl of fiction is apt to have hay fever, be a wee bit bow-legged, and probably should wear glasses. . . . is older than she admits, and diets and exercises like fury to keep slim. . . . and then has to remember to hold her stomach in!

Yes, indeed, that did us good! The undiluted truth is that the heroine couldn't be true to life and beautiful unless she did work at it a bit. To me, the most remarkable thing about her is her determination. All the time that she is breaking her heart over a blighted romance—or her neck in a series of breathtaking adventures—she goes right along with the calisthenics and calorie counting! No wonder there are so many stories with happy endings!

What the average woman needs is some of the fiction heroine's determination. You are apt to think that you were not born with your share of good looks and let it go at that, when by correcting or minimizing your flaws you might pass for a beauty. It is being done every day.

In the first place, all women who stand out from the crowd have better than average posture. When you come to analyze it, good posture goes with the determination it takes to look your best and with the well-toned muscles that come from exercise.

Doing one thing for your good looks leads to doing another—especially in exercise. As soon as you have a trim waist, you won't be satisfied until your hips are at least passably slim, and the first thing you know you will be aiming for a perfect figure.

The woman who has enough will power for daily exercise certainly has too much to permit overindulgence in sweets and rich foods. She knows just how many calories she actually needs and that any more will put an excess padding on her streamlined figure, no matter how much exercise she takes. She never tries to pretend to herself that "an extra dessert won't count this once." She knows it will.

Oxygen Vitrally Important To Cells

By Dr. William Brady.

Insufficient oxygen delivered to the cells, tissues or organs of the body, anoxia, as doctors call it, explains all the symptoms of heart disease, whether it be valvular leakage, angina pectoris or chronic myocarditis (slow heart muscle failure). Complete deprivation of oxygen, cellular asphyxia, is the cause of death in all cases of heart disease that terminate fatally. Valvular disease is never fatal, however. A person with a valvular leakage may, if he knows his handicap and limitations and lives within them, enjoy a longer life than the average.

The vital importance of the constant delivery of oxygen to the cells, tissues or organs is dealt with in greater detail in "How to Breathe," 50-page booklet about carbon monoxide, anoxia, belly breathing, resuscitation, halitosis, snoring, neurasthenia, quick fatigability, languor, headache, vital capacity, mountain sickness, your diaphragm, shortness of breath. Sorry, but it will really be worth two bits, I expect, and you may have a copy for only 20 cents—coin if you provide a full-size stamped envelope bearing your address.

Tuesday we do not bowl. Have to give the green one day a week to grow and rest. I hate like Tuesday suggesting any symptom here, but after all an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure. Before we leave the subject of anoxia I need only mention that comparatively slight anoxia, as in altitude flying, is probably accountable for otherwise inexplicable aviation disasters attributed to "pilot error."

Among the effects of moderate oxygen want are dulling of senses and intellect without the person being aware of it, lowering of powers of sight, hearing, memory, judgment, irrational ideas, uncontrolled outbursts of emotion, disturbed muscular co-ordination. Such effects occur in anoxia from various illnesses such as fever, pneumonia, septicemia, as well as in chronic or moderate carbon monoxide anoxia and in high flying or mountain sickness. They occur, too, in heart disease—any kind of organic heart disease in which the heart's reserve power is so reduced that the circulation fails to supply enough oxygen to satisfy the demands of the patient's ways of living.

You see, a normal heart has power, say from A to E for the ordinary requirements of sedentary life or moderate work, or play and power from E to K which can put forth in an emergency. The E to K power is reserve power. Now suppose a valvular lesion develops, and with each heart beat a portion of the blood leaks back through the damaged valve. In order to still pump enough blood into the arteries the heart must pump more at each beat than the normal quantity, to compensate for the backflow. It does this by drawing on the reserve power. Therefore, a heart with valvular insufficiency has to use power, say from A to G even when the individual is at rest, and has a correspondingly limited reserve to put forth in any emergency, only from G to K. The margin of reserve power is the determining factor in the prognosis of not only valvular trouble but every other form of heart disease. Husbanding reserve power by REST or increasing it by GRADUATED EXERCISE are

Y.W.C.A. Clubs Plan to Celebrate Christmas With Many Gay Parties

Y. W. C. A. clubs are celebrating Christmas with gay parties, carol singing, co-operative giving and distribution of gifts by Santa Claus. The display of dolls dressed by Girl Reserves and Leisure Time Club members has been arranged by Mrs. Robert Edmond and Mrs. John Conyers at 37 Auburn-avenue.

Girl Reserves from all over the city have co-operated with the women's division, Chamber of Commerce, in dressing over 200 dolls and with other agencies in providing Santa Claus for various children.

Tuesday afternoon Girls' High Girl Reserves will enjoy a luncheon at the Y. W. C. A., then make scrapbooks to be given to children's hospitals. Mrs. Frank J. Henry, advisor, and Miss Frances Kerr, secretary, will assist club officers in entertaining.

At the Bell Y party Tuesday evening, supper will be served downstairs at individual tables and there will be a gala floor show, according to Miss Corena Bradshaw, program chairman. Later the girls will exchange gifts. Thursday evening Business Girls' League members will play with the toys they give each other, then place them in a large barrel and send them to the Public Welfare department.

Girls living at the Y. W. C. A. residence will have a party Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, when they gather around a brightly decorated tree for Santa's gifts. After carols have been sung, Miss Henrietta Cheek will give a vocal solo and Miss Margaret Hagin will read Christmas verses.

Miss Anne Hoyt Plans Bowling Party.

Among events planned for next week to feature the social calendar for the school set of society is the bowling party at which Miss Anne Hoyt will be hostess on Thursday, December 29, at the Buckhead Bowling Alley at 3447 Peachtree road. The occasion will assemble a large number of the younger set between the hours of 4 and 6 o'clock.

The hostess, who is the lovely young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Hoyt, will be assisted in entertaining by her parents, and Mr. and Mrs. R. K. White. Miss Hoyt is a popular member of the freshman class at Washington Seminary.

Miss Taylor and Miss Hurt Honor Miss Echols and Fiance at Dinner

Among the lovely prenuptial affairs complimenting Miss Nell Echols and her fiance, William S. Burks Jr., of Birmingham, was the dinner-party at which Miss Betty Taylor and Miss Martha Hurt entertained last evening at Miss Taylor's home on Ponce de Leon avenue, in Druid Hills. The occasion assembled the members of the honor guests' wedding party and a few additional guests.

The marriage of Miss Echols and Mr. Burks will take place at 6 o'clock tomorrow evening at the Second-Ponce de Leon Baptist church, with a reception following at the Atlanta Woman's Club. Miss Taylor and Miss Hurt are included among the bridesmaids in the wedding personnel.

The lower floor of the Taylor home was adorned for the occasion with quantities of white chrysanthemums and Christmas greens. The bridal couple was seated for dinner at a beautifully appointed table in the dining room, which held as a centerpiece a five-branched silver candelabrum holding white tall tapers and arising from a mound of mistletoe. Other details of decoration were in white, green and silver. Small tables, seating congenial groups of guests, were adorned with silver candelabra holding white tapers which were caught with clusters of mistletoe tied with white tulle bows. The places of the guests were marked by miniature shoulder bouquets of small white rosebuds and white button chrysanthemums encased in lace paper holders for ladies, and boutonnières of white rosebuds for the gentlemen.

The hostesses were assisted in entertaining by Miss Taylor's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Taylor Jr., and Miss Hurt's mother, Mrs. John S. Hurt. Following dinner, interesting new games were played, with prizes awarded the winners.

Covers were placed for Miss Echols, Mr. Burks, Misses Eugenia Bridges, Nettie Lee Greer, Charlotte Galbraith, Amariyllis Pickett, Kathleen Stokely, Penn Hammond, Elsie York, Edith Fugitt, Mary Curtis, Charlotte Selman, Elizabeth Blackshear, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Echols, parents of the bride-elect; James Conrad and William Phillips, both of Birmingham, McNair Bell, of Washington, D. C.; Carlton Dekle, Charles and Joe Carver, James C. Howell, Dick Clements, Pat Wagner, Bruce Smith, Charles Allison and Norman Jones.

Miss Nettie Lee Greer entertained at luncheon yesterday at her home on Page avenue in honor of Miss Echols. Mrs. C. T. Greer assisted her daughter in entertaining the guests who were seated for luncheon at two tables attractively decorated in the blue and silver motif. The hand-painted place cards were caught with tiny blue and silver bells.

Covers were laid for Misses Echols, Kathleen Stokely, Martha Hurt, Betty Taylor, Eugenia Bridges, Charlotte Galbraith, Charlotte Selman, Elizabeth Blackshear, Amariyllis Pickett and the hostess.

Miss Eugenia Bridges was hostess at a kitchen shower for the bride-elect on Saturday at her home on Winter avenue. Mrs. Fred T. Bridges assisted her daughter in entertaining her guests who included the members of Miss Echols' wedding personnel and a few additional friends.

The color scheme for the party was red and white, with all the gifts for the bride-elect's kitchen featuring these colors. The guests were entertained with various games and contests, among which was the writing of recipes for holding a husband's love, these recipes being presented to the honor guest. Another novel contest was that of making words out of the two words, "kitchen utensils."

McCann-McIndoo Plans Announced

Of cordial interest is the announcement of the wedding plans of Mrs. Carolyn Hastings McCann and E. Elvin McIndoo Jr., the ceremony to take place at 8:30 o'clock on Saturday evening, December 31, at the Peachtree Christian church. Mrs. McCann is the daughter of John W. Hastings, of Toledo, Ohio, who will give his daughter in marriage. Mr. McIndoo is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. McIndoo, of 2230 Peachtree road.

Miss Doris Kaylor will be the bride-elect's maid of honor, and Miss Clara Randman will serve as a bridesmaid. Miss Mary Baker, young niece of the bride-to-be, will act as junior bridesmaid.

Mr. McIndoo has chosen George L. Baker as his best man. The ushers will include John T. Shaw, John Leslie Baker, George H. Robinson Jr. and Godwin Cameron.

Following the ceremony at the church, a wedding reception will be held at the home of the bride-elect's brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Baker, at 94 955 Stovall boulevard.

Miss Annette Gardner Becomes Bride of Mr. Taylor at Home Rites

Miss Annette Gardner became the bride of Joe K. Taylor, of Birmingham, Ala., at a ceremony solemnized yesterday at 2 o'clock at the home of the bride's father, R. Z. Gardner, on Euclid avenue.

Rev. Charles Richardson officiated in the presence of the families and a few close friends. Presenting a program of music was Miss Lucile Williams, of Jacksonville, Fla., and Miss Ada Ellen Irwin, of LaFollette, Tenn.

The improvised altar was formed of palms and beautified with tiers of candelabra holding white tapers. Placed at intervals among the greenery were baskets of white gladioli and lilies.

Mrs. J. C. Jones was matron of honor and the bride's only attendant. She wore a model of teal blue alpaca with black accessories and a spray of talisman roses and baby's breath.

The bride entered with her father, by whom she was given in marriage, and they were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Bob Gardner, brother of the bride.

She wore a costume suit of slate

Miss Jones, Fiance Honored at Supper Following Rehearsal

Climaxing the series of delightful parties honoring Miss Margaret Jones and her fiance, James Goodwin Scott, of Washington, D. C., whose marriage will be a social event of today, was the buffet supper given last evening by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boynton Cole and Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Biglin.

The affair was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Biglin on The Prado, and followed the wedding rehearsal of the young couple at the Cathedral of St. Philip. Mrs. Taylor Ridley, mother of Miss Jones, assisted the hosts in entertaining and presided at the coffee table.

Throughout the home quantities of flowers were used to carry out a color scheme of white and green in the dining room, while other rooms were beautified by the festive and decorative Christmas arrangements.

Present were members of the wedding party and a number of out-of-town guests including Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Scott, of Birmingham, parents of the groom-elect; Mrs. John Young, of Columbia, S. C. Miss Lilian Jones, of West Salem, Mass.; King Sparks and Bryon Chancey, of Birmingham.

Mrs. Smith Heads Cheshire Bridge Club

Election of new officers of the Cheshire Bridge Garden Club was the feature of the recent meeting of the club held at the Rock Spring Presbyterian church. The new officers include Mrs. Zode Smith, president; Mrs. Frances Meadows, vice president; Mrs. F. A. Hubbell, recording secretary; Mrs. John Moore, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Dan Pate, treasurer.

A report was made by Mrs. Meadows on the recent meeting of the fifth district garden division of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs in Hapeville. Other chairmen marking reports were Miss Cora Cheshire, Mesdames C. J. Mooser, J. C. Turner, J. C. Sands, Walter Henn, John Moore, O. H. Taft and Mrs. Zode Smith.

Mrs. J. C. Turner won the prize offered by the president, Mrs. Homer Cheshire, for the member making the most points in flower arrangements. Mrs. Walter Sims presented Mrs. Homer Cheshire, retiring president, a lace tablecloth from the club members, in appreciation of her work as president.

A special feature of the program was the filling of baskets of food and gifts, brought by the members to be given needy families Christmas. The baskets were turned over to the Rock Spring Presbyterian church to be distributed. The guest speaker was Mrs. E. P. Creashaw.

A Christmas party was held. Gifts were placed around a silver Christmas tree decorated in silver. Mrs. Ed. M. Tullie Smith distributed the gifts.

Edgewood W. M. S. Installs Officers.

The Edgewood Baptist W. M. S. met recently with Mrs. A. G. Sullivan, installing the new officers. Mrs. A. H. Benning, charter member of the W. M. S., and of the church, was made honorary president for life.

MOON ON THE WATER

By RUBY M. AYRES.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE. Jane Brooks' mother dies soon after her grandmother bequeathes her 3,000 pounds sterling, to be held in trust five years until she is 21. Pamela, a year older, takes her mother's place in the household. Dulcie, the eldest, is the black beauty of the family. Just as Jane gets her legacy Gavin Montford returns to England from Canada to visit his uncle, Mr. Bingham, the Brooks' neighbor. He meets Jane when the old Brooks' stop suddenly and he discovers the only trouble is the gas tank is empty. Going with her to get more, he learns she loves poetry and is superstitious about seeing the new moon through glass or reflected in water. The next day he takes her to lunch and tells her that when his parents died while he was in school he went to Canada and tried several things but with little success. Almost abruptly he asks her to marry him. She hesitates but with little money to start in business so they can marry soon, Dulcie returns from London, says to Gavin, a wealthy man of 50, wants to marry her. She makes opportunities to be alone with Gavin. Jane is jealous and Pamela warns her to watch her sister. Josh comes to see Dulcie and Jane likes him. There is delay in Gavin's signing partnership papers, he broke a window and she gives him a hint he asks if she regrets giving him the money. She says she has changed and she still loves him. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT XXI

Jane wiped her eyes determinedly.

"I'm all right now—it was silly of me, but—oh, I don't know, but when you spoke so kindly—"

Kindness! The greatest thing in the world—the thing she longed for most of all.

The silence fell again until Jane said with forced cheerfulness, "I expect Dulcie will be ringing up directly. I am afraid she will be very disappointed at missing you."

"Do you know what she said in her telegram?" Hallard asked.

Jane shook her head. "She didn't tell me, but she said something about lunch—at the Ritz, I think."

The faintest smile crossed his face. "If I may use your phone, I will ring the Ritz and ask them to find her and give her a message," he said, and went out into the hall.

There was the sound of a car stopping at the front door, and she hurriedly searched for a powder puff with which to hide the tear stains.

The door opened and Gavin and Hallard came in together.

"They have promised to find her and give the message," Josh said. He glanced at Gavin. "We have introduced ourselves," he added.

Gavin looked at Jane. "Dulcie caught the train all right. But it is a pity there has been a misunderstanding—I suppose she will come back again?"

"No," Hallard answered. "I sent word that I would join her as quickly as possible."

Both of them so concerned for Dulcie, Jane thought.

"I'll just go and wash," Gavin said. "That old car is about on its last legs. I had a job to get it back from the station."

"Poor old thing! It's worn out."

"Do you know what she said in her telegram?" Hallard asked.

Jane shook her head. "She didn't tell me, but she said something about lunch—at the Ritz, I think."

The faintest smile crossed his face. "If I may use your phone, I will ring the Ritz and ask them to find her and give her a message," he said, and went out into the hall.

There was the sound of a car stopping at the front door, and she hurriedly searched for a powder puff with which to hide the tear stains.

"No," Hallard answered. "I sent word that I would join her as quickly as possible."

Both of them so concerned for Dulcie, Jane thought.

"I'll just go and wash," Gavin said. "That old car is about on its last legs. I had a job to get it back from the station."

"Poor old thing! It's worn out."

Jane answered, and she thought of the night she first met Gavin—of the cool breath of spring through the darkness—the soft lapping of the stream as they crossed the little plank bridge together—of the moon on the water—

When Gavin had gone, Jane looked again at Hallard. "Are you superstitious about things?" she asked.

He laughed. "I am afraid I am," he admitted. "Not many things, but I have one pet superstition—I hate to see the new moon through glass, or reflected in the water."

Jane opened her eyes wide. "How very strange!" she said with a little gasp. "Those are my own superstitions—and it always seems to happen—just before—something important comes along. How queer, isn't it?"

"Two great minds share the same superstition," he said with a smile, and then to her surprise: "You have never kept your promise to lunch with me."

Jane shook her head. "I don't think you really meant it," she said frankly.

"I shall be in town all this week," Hallard said, "and any day that will suit you—"

Jane hesitated; it was on the tip of her tongue to protest: "But Dulcie won't like it," and then hurriedly she said aloud, "I'll ask Dulcie which day she can manage."

Hallard frowned. "I should like you to lunch with me alone," he told her.

"Alone?" There was an amazed little silence before Jane could collect her thoughts. Alone! Perhaps he wanted to talk to her about Dulcie. If that was the reason—and then suddenly she was asking herself defiantly: "Well, why not? Dulcie takes Gavin whenever she wants him—she doesn't consider my feelings."

"Very well," she said. "I shall be pleased to lunch with you on Thursday, if that will do."

"I shall be very pleased to keep Thursday free," he answered a trifle formally.

"Of course I shall tell Dulcie," she said.

He met her eyes steadily. "Must you?" he asked.

"Of course—at least—she's sure to find out—and—"

Hallard smiled. "Don't you ever go to London alone?" he asked.

"I do—sometimes, but—"

She could say no more, for at that moment Gavin returned.

Hallard took his leave without there being an opportunity to say anything more about the proposed lunch, and Jane felt somehow relieved. As he had made no definite arrangement, he would not really expect her, she decided—no doubt he had just spoken on the spur of the moment, perhaps because she had cried—when her father's death was mentioned—and because he was sorry for her.

"How well do you know that fellow, Jane?" Gavin asked.

Jane started. "How well? I've met him only once before. He's Dulcie's friend." She hesitated. "I expect she'll marry him—now," she added uncertainly.

She walked across to the fire shivering a little, and presently Gavin followed. "Tired?" he asked.

"Oh, no—at least—yes, I suppose I am—it's all so worrying. There was a little catch in her voice, and she bit her lip to steady its sudden trembling, to her surprise, for he seldom touched her, Gavin put an arm around her, drawing her to him.

"When shall we be married?" he asked.

"Married?" Jane echoed the word in a whisper, and her slim body stiffened in his embrace before, very slowly, she turned to face him. "May I ask you a question?"

He bent his head so that his face was touching hers.

"Of course; what is it?"

Jane laid both hands on his shoulders, holding him from her. She wanted to see his eyes, and somehow she felt that it was the last thing he wished.

"Gavin—do you still care enough for me to marry me?"

She did not say "love," because the word had never been spoken between them.

But to her infinite relief his eyes did not fall, or even waver, as he echoed steadily and yet half whimsically, "Still!"

She nodded. "Yes; because—unless you are sure, quite sure, I'd rather set you free."

He said rather quickly, "That almost sounds as if you are hoping for your freedom."

"Does it?" Her hands tightened their grasp as if subconsciously she felt that he was slipping away from her. "Isn't that begging the question—a little?" she asked faintly. "I only want you to be quite honest with me, Gavin—for us to be quite honest with each other."

He laid his hands over hers, drawing them down from his shoulders. "I have never met a girl whom I admire and respect as I admire and respect you," he said. "Will that do?"

She forced a smile to her lips. "But admiration and respect aren't reason enough for marriage," she protested.

She was a little surprised and touched when suddenly he raised her hand to his lips.

"It's enough for me, if it is for you," he answered.

So that was the best she could hope for! There was a chill little feeling at her heart, though she tried once again:

"And—supposing—some day—you meet another girl who means more to you than I—ever can?"

"Isn't that a risk we must both take?" he asked.

She turned away from him, and there was a tragic little silence before she said, restlessly, "We can't get married yet—not till—everything is settled here—and arranged. Besides—you know Pamela and Sidney are to be married."

"Need that interfere with our future? And what will you do when Pamela has gone—and the house has gone? Where can you go?"

Jane closed her eyes for a moment, then she laughed. "I dare say I can find some one to take me in and play the Good Samaritan," she said lightly. "Besides, it isn't settled—about the business yet, is it? Your business, I mean?"

"Not yet."

"Then it seems to me that it will be much more sensible if we wait a little while longer," she said, and every word cost her an effort. "There's plenty of time, and—and—I think it will be much more sensible," she added.

And yet at the back of her mind a voice was mocking her: "You fool! Why don't you say yes, and marry him now? You've got the chance? You may never have another. Why don't you say yes?"

She knew why, well enough—she knew that for her, at all events, "admiration and respect" were not enough. At first she had been happily sure she could be content with friendship and affection; life had seemed complete when Gavin told her it would be a good thing, shared with her, but now it was different; she felt as if she stood poised on a rock which moved insecurely beneath her feet, and from which she was afraid at any moment she might fall.

And then suddenly she thought of Josh Hallard, without any particular reason, and remembered the kindly touch of his hand on her shoulder when she wept.

He would never get on with Dulcie, any more than Gavin and she would be happy together, and she asked herself in a cold critical way: "Why don't I tell him we had better say good-bye? Why don't I tell him?" She moved her left hand and looked down at his signet ring. It hung a little loosely on her finger, and it would be the easiest thing in the world just to slip it off and give it back to him and to say: "It's been a mistake—but it's not too late—"

Only she couldn't! She moved her lips in a vain effort to speak the words, but it was impossible.

Then Gavin said—and she tried not to believe that there was a note of relief in his voice, "If you change your mind, Jane, you have only to tell me."

Continued Tomorrow.

Jane wiped her eyes determinedly.

"I'm all right now—it was silly of me, but—oh, I don't know, but when you spoke so kindly—"

Kindness! The greatest thing in the world—the thing she longed for most of all.

The silence fell again until Jane said with forced cheerfulness, "I expect Dulcie will be ringing up directly. I am afraid she will be very disappointed at missing you."

"Do you know what she said in her telegram?" Hallard asked.

Jane shook her head. "She didn't tell me, but she said something about lunch—at the Ritz, I think."

The faintest smile crossed his face. "If I may use your phone, I will ring the Ritz and ask them to find her and give her a message," he said, and went out into the hall.

There was the sound of a car stopping at the front door, and she hurriedly searched for a powder puff with which to hide the tear stains.

The door opened and Gavin and Hallard came in together.

"They have promised to find her and give the message," Josh said. He glanced at Gavin. "We have introduced ourselves," he added.

Gavin looked at Jane. "Dulcie caught the train all right. But it is a pity there has been a misunderstanding—I suppose she will come back again?"

"No," Hallard answered. "I sent word that I would join her as quickly as possible."

Both of them so concerned for Dulcie, Jane thought.

"I'll just go and wash," Gavin said. "That old car is about on its last legs. I had a job to get it back from the station."

"Poor old thing! It's worn out."

Jackets Arrive in California in Best Physical Shape of Year

EN ROUTE TO SAN FRANCISCO WITH TECH, Dec. 19. It may have been because we were passing through what Kenneth Rogers would regard as hunter's paradise.

The big iron steed which is pulling us to California was roaring through southwest Louisiana, in likely bird country, and scared up a covey.

"Well, sir," said the big man who was sitting across the aisle, "I'll never forget the experience I had on a hunt once. We had a fellow along who had never even seen a covey of quail."

"As well as I remember, this fellow was a sports writer who frequently wrote knowingly about game. Anyway, we split up in the afternoon and hunted both sides of a branch."

"It so happened the sports writer went off by himself with one of the dogs. I happened to observe what took place, so I know that part of the story he related was the truth."

"In no time at all, the dog pointed and the sports writer, for the first time in his life, was in a spot he couldn't talk himself out of."

"He stood there for a spell and pondered on the best action to take. He tried to get the dog's attention, but it was a good dog and refused to take heed. He said 'shoo' a couple of times in a strong voice, but with no results."

"Finally, the sports writer laid down his gun and picked up a rock. He threw this rock and the covey roared away. Naturally, before he could pick up his gun all the birds were gone."

"One of the party on the other side of the branch yelled, 'How many birds in that bunch?'"

"Oh, just a couple," the sports writer said meekly. "There must have been fully 25 in the covey," the big man continued. "I know because, as mentioned, I saw the whole thing. Sports writers generally are pretty good at talking a good game, aren't they?"

Three Atlanta sports writers quietly got up and walked away. The answers don't come very fast at a time like that.

HARDLY NEED A GUN.

Kenneth Rogers, the old warden rider, would have a fit on a trip like this. You hardly would need a gun going through some of the places on the train.

I saw at least three coveys get up within throwing distance. And duck, in the marshes, seem countless. They fly near the train.

There was an urge to raise a window and try one's aim with a soft drink bottle. It really doesn't seem cricket to so advertise hunting conditions in Louisiana, but the apparent plenitude of game is impressive.

BUT THIS IS A FOOTBALL TRIP.

For a moment, I almost forgot this is a football expedition. Sight of the game and thoughts of the efforts Fred Jordan, back in Atlanta, is making to have the Waynesboro trials in January the best ever held, probably are responsible for the digression.

And, as this is written, we are still a long way from anything that looks like California.

It is interesting, on such a trip, to watch fellows who have worked hard for years trying to relax all at once. They can't do it.

There is the case of Mr. Jimmy Setze Jr., of the Scottish Rite hospital, for instance. Jimmy was given this trip as a sort of Christmas present.

There is no more diligent worker than Jimmy Setze. As an illustration, he worked up until 5 o'clock Friday before going home to pack and catch the 6 o'clock train.

He can't relax and, since he has had some experience writing for the papers, I think I have found a solution for him. Mr. Setze has agreed to write a guest column of his experiences on his first football trip west.

It should make very interesting reading and, at the same time, give Mr. Setze something to do under the pretext of working.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Joe Pittard, who used to coach at Gainesville High, is taking himself quite a trip. He will visit relatives at Portland, Ore., over the holidays. Joe recalled that just 20 years ago he was going this same route to one of Uncle Sam's army camps in Arizona.

And 20 years ago George Griffin also was in training for Uncle Sam, but as a navy man. One of the sports writers along, also in the navy, was in drydock.

I started to speak up when the other sports writer traveling with us said: "Hold on a second, son; I imagine they were still using safty pins on you, and it remains rather questionable as to whether you were in drydock or not."

Oddly, just 49 years ago and a few days, Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech, was on his honeymoon in New Orleans. The Brittains stopped at the St. Charles.

Nobody will get more out of the trip than will little Jimmy Burgess, son of the passenger agent; Carroll Ecken, youngest daughter of the Murdock Equens, and Rebecca, youngest stepchild of Coach Alexander.

They already have played a recognized trial the length of the train. It won't be long until they'll be asking about the Indians.

Osmanski Decides Against Pro Play

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—(UP)—Bill Osmanski, star Holy Cross fullback who was obtained by the Chicago Bears in the National Football League draft recently, said tonight he would not play pro football.

"I've played enough football," the captain of the Crusaders said. "Osmanski, who stopped here en route to San Francisco with the East All-Star team, did not disclose his future plans."

Whitney McMullen Is Bought by Vols

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 19.—(AP)—The Nashville Vols of the Southern association have acquired first baseman Whitney McMullen, of the Florida State league's Gainesville club, Manager Larry Gilbert said today.

McMullen, rated the standout first sacker of the Florida league last season, will report for spring training on a "look" proposition.

Atlantans Form Field Trial Club; Plan Meet

Atlanta sportsmen gathered last night at 160 Mitchell street and formed the first field trial club in the city's history.

Twenty-five bird dog fanciers were present and were admitted to the club. Other members will be admitted.

Ray Carter was elected the club's first president. C. V. Mason was named vice president and Francis Dwyer secretary-treasurer. Clint Davis was appointed chairman of the field trial board.

The newly formed association, which has been enthusiastically received here, announced that it would hold its first field trial in March within a 25-mile radius of Atlanta, and that several excellent sites were being considered.

The Atlanta Field Trial Club will send a delegation to the Waynesboro trials January 16-20.

Robert Butner, of the State Game Department, was present and pledged his unit's co-operation and support for the Atlanta club.

Next meeting of the Atlanta group will be held on January 4.

GREAT PROGRAM READY FOR FANS AT SUGAR BOWL

Participants Start Arriving; Grant To Enter Tennis Tourney.

By JAMES MARLOW.
NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 19.—(AP)—This is the time of year when the publicity boys have the Sugar Bowl sweetened with syrupy words but the guests who have to produce for the cash customers are beginning to arrive.

The Carnegie Tech Skibos set up camp today at Bay St. Louis, Miss., where they will rehearse for their January 2 football battle here against Texas Christian University.

Glenn Cunningham, world record holder for the mile who seems to have been running around cinder paths before Cornwalls surrendered at Yorktown, is already here and hard at work for his mile race against a pretty field on New Year's Day.

This isn't meant to discourage the boys who like camping out, but the managers of this city's largest hotels announced today they are sold out for the bowl game.

The hurly-burly will get under way the day after Christmas with yachting and rowing races, and boxing matches between the teams of Loyola University and Clemson College.

Represented in the yacht races will be the Southern Yacht Club of New Orleans, the Buccaneer Y. C. of Mobile, Ala.; Pass Christian, Gulfport and Biloxi Yacht Clubs from Mississippi, and the Pensacola Y. C.

Before the sailing boys begin their nip-and-tuck business on Lake Pontchartrain there will be a pair of rowing races in the quiet new Basin canal between the doubles combinations of the New Orleans Athletic Club and the Orleans Rowing Club and the four-oared shells of Rollins College and the Orleans Rowing Club.

Everybody heaves a big sigh December 27—an off day—but the next day is a basketball game between Purdue, champion of the Big Ten, and Arkansas, kingpin of the Southwest conference.

The racket boys match strokes the last day of this year and the first day of next.

Douglas Watters, chairman of the tennis committee of the New Orleans Mid-Winter Sports Association, which promotes the Sugar Bowl festivities, said included among the players here December 29-January 1 would be Betsy Grant, Gene Mako, Hal Surface, Elwood Cooke and Wayne Sablin, Corey Lewis, Gardner Mulloy, Jack Tidball, Bobby Kamrath and Jack Hardie.

Cunningham is not the only shining light among the runners, though. Besides a good field at the various distances, a high spot will be the medley relay among Rice Institute, North Texas Teachers, Loyola and Southwestern.

Then, saturated with speed and human endeavor, the sports patrons will betake themselves to the Tulane University stadium where All-America Quarterback Davey O'Brien will try to pitch out of condition they got in a two weeks' layoff. Several days of conditioning work will have to be gone through to get ready for the game with Oklahoma.

And for those hopeful souls who hear a symphony in the cry "they're off," there will be a couple of lovely horse races at the fair ground race track, the Christmas and New Year's handicaps.

Baliplayer Who Attacked Crooner Excused by Judge

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 19.—(AP)—A city judge handed out some advice on fisticuffing today to one of the baseball youngsters who will war for the Philadelphia Athletics next spring.

The recipient was Bill Nagel, 22, a third baseman up from Little Rock, who was charged with disturbing the peace of a hotel night early Sunday morning.

Specifically, Bill was charged—and he didn't deny it—with letting a free-wheeling right connect with the face of Crooner Walter Cummings, a brother member of the Bernie Cummins orchestra.

Displaying a wine-colored orb that even made Judge William Bateman wince, Crooner Walter testified to the zip of the ball player's throwing arm.

Abashed, Nagel said he was "sorry it happened," but insisted that Cummings winked at the girl with whom he was dancing.

"It's part of my business to smile at dance patrons," countered the crooner, who added that he had no desire to see Nagel "go to jail or anything like that."

Professing he was interested in both baseball and dancing, the judge said he was "in the middle" but would dismiss the charge.

To Nagel, he said: "I think you ought to count up to 50 before you hit another man."

The ball player and crooner parted amicably.

Civic League Quintets Will Play Two Tonight

Only two basketball games will be played tonight in the Civic league at the Y. M. C. A.

Piggly Wiggly meets Decatur Presbyterian at 7 o'clock and Beck & Gregg clashes with Four-Square at 8 o'clock. The other two games scheduled—ABC vs. Y. Triangles and Sears-Roebuck vs. Medics—have been cancelled.

DUKE TO LEAVE TODAY ON TRIP TO ROSE BOWL

Lace Panties Mailed to 'Eunice' Tipton and 'Agnes' Hill.

DURHAM, N. C., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Duke's football squad took its final heavy home workout today before enroute tomorrow afternoon for Pasadena, Cal., where it meets Southern California January 2 in the Rose Bowl game.

The Blue Devils will trot through a light signal drill tomorrow shortly before the R. P. M. departure.

Today's were on pass defense and offense, on running plays and group sessions by backs, ends and linemen. Willard Perdue, end, who was handicapped last week by a leg injury, was back in top form.

Coach Wallace Wade said the squad would have workouts at Pine Bluff, Ark., and Lubbock, Texas.

Two pairs of lace panties are the latest equipment to be added to the football squad.

Since the Blue Devils, who leave tomorrow for Pasadena and the Rose Bowl game with Southern California January 2, received the invitation to meet the Trojans they have been compared by one sports writer to a girls' college eleven. But, fresh fuel was added to the fire today when Co-captains Eric Tipton, back, and Dan Hill, center, each received a pair of lace panties.

There was no name on the package to indicate who the sender was and the post office mark was so dim the origin of the package couldn't be determined.

It bore this inscription: "Eunice Tipton and Agnes Hill care of Ted Mann, Duke University." Mann is director of sports publicity at Duke.

Tennessee Starts Drills for Sooners

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Tennessee's Volunteers this afternoon started their workouts for their big post season game, with the University of Oklahoma Sooners in the Orange Bowl at Miami January 2.

Major Bob Neyland said that his charges showed the need of getting back in condition.

"The squad showed lots of pep, and I was very well pleased at their eagerness," said Neyland. "But it is remarkable how badly out of condition they got in a two weeks' layoff. Several days of conditioning work will have to be gone through to get ready for the game with Oklahoma."

VOLS ANNOUNCE 1939 GRID CARD

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 19.—(AP)—With the addition of Southwestern and Mercer, the University of Tennessee completed today its 1939 football schedule.

The Vols will meet six Southeastern conference and four non-conference opponents, opening with Southwestern at Memphis, September 30, Clemson and Ole Miss were dropped.

The schedule: September 30, Southwestern at Memphis. October 7, Sewanee; 14, Chattanooga, there; 21, Alabama; 28, Mercer.

November 4, Louisiana State at Baton Rouge; 11, The Citadel; 18, Vanderbilt; 23, Kentucky at Lexington. December 2, Auburn.

M'CRAY ADVANCES

ATHENS, Tenn., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Rube McCray, head coach at Tennessee Wesleyan College for the past nine years, resigned today to accept a job as backfield coach at William and Mary College, Williamsburg, Va., effective February 1.

'Wild Bill' Hallahan Released by Phillies

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Release of "Wild Bill" Hallahan, veteran southpaw pitcher for the Phillies, was announced today by President Gerry Nugent.

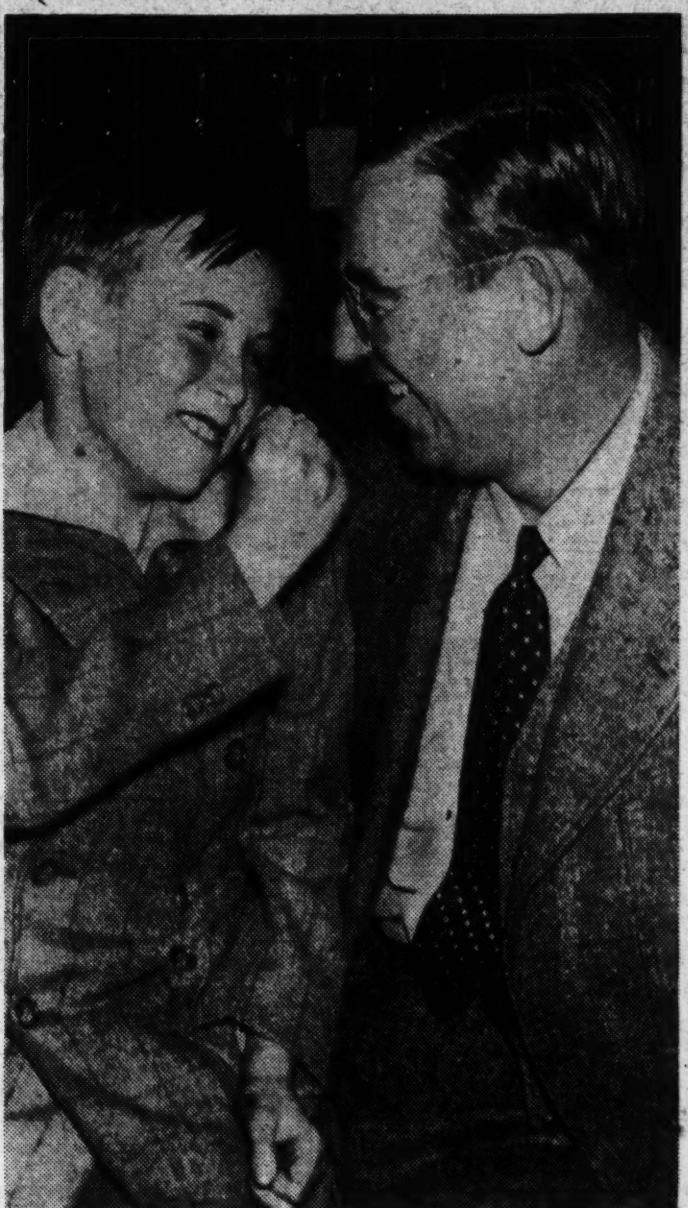

Hallahan, rated as one of the wealthiest players in baseball, said he might forsake baseball for a year to take a cruise around the world.

Wild Bill, who came to the Phillies from Cincinnati, has not been effective for the past three years. His best seasons were with the St. Louis Cardinals in their pennant-winning years of 1930 and 1931.

President Nugent said Third Baseman Pinky Whitney, who had requested permission to make a deal for himself, had turned down a managerial post in the Texas league to take another fling with the Phils.

Nugent said all National league clubs except the Giants would play at least one night game in Philadelphia next summer.

BIG HARRY AND LITTLE HARRY

Harry Mehre Jr., shown above with his father, the gentleman who did one of the finest football coaching jobs in the nation last fall at Mississippi, is shaking a warning fist at his father. Harry Sr. had just suggested that perhaps Santa Claus thought Harry Jr. would be at Oxford, Miss. The Mehres are spending the holidays in Athens with Mrs. Mehre's family.

Tennessee's Strength In Her Tackles--Mehre

Harry Shops Here; All He Wants of Santa Claus Is Another Parker Hall.

By TOM M'RAE.
Harry Mehre was in our town yesterday. He hardly could be seen. Missus Mehre was shopping for Christmas. About all that could be seen of Mr. Mehre was his hat and his legs. He was all bundles.

Along with him was Harry Mehre Jr., mildly worried for fear Santa Claus may not have been informed the Mehres are spending the Christmas holidays with Mrs. Mehre's family in Athens, who desired to be with the grandchildren at Christmas.

Harry Mehre had little to say about football. He thought Tennessee's great strength was her tackling—an item most of the boys have failed to mention.

He loses Parker Hall, this All-American back. Also his first-string quarterback.

New Song Ready, 'Fight Vols, Fight'

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 19.—(AP)—The University of Tennessee Volunteers will have a new football song—"Fight Vols, Fight"—when they collide with Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl at Miami January 2.

The song, written by Dr. Milo Sweet, of Los Angeles, in collaboration with Tennessee's bandmaster, Ernest W. Hall, will be played publicly for the first time in a parade preceding the game, Hall said today.

The Tennessee band, Hall said, has been designated as the "honorary musical unit" in a pre-game parade in which between 35 and 40 bands are expected to participate.

McCray Will Become W. and M. Grid Aide

ATHENS, Tenn., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Rube McCray, who produced seven junior college conference championship football teams at Tennessee Wesleyan College, resigned today to become backfield coach at William and Mary College, Williamsburg, Va.

McCray played varsity football at Tennessee Wesleyan and Kentucky Wesleyan. He will coach baseball and teach physical education in addition to his football duties at William and Mary.

50-Cent Derby Seats Proposed by Winn

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—(UP)—Colonel Matt Winn, president of Churchill Downs, late today announced a plan under which "the working man" will be able to see next year's Kentucky Derby from a 50-cent seat.

Before leaving for Louisville, Ky., Winn disclosed plans to erect bleachers along the lower bend between the turn and the stretch that will seat 20,000 persons at 50 cents a head for the 64th running of the nation's No. 1 horse race next May 6.

The Pitts girls also won over the Cordelle lassies, 28 to 15. In the boys' game, Shell sparked the winning attack with 19 points.

BILLY GILLESPIE IS RANKED FIFTH IN INDOOR MEET

Don Buffington 12th on List for National Junior Tennis Tournament.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Joseph Fishback, St. John's (N. Y.) sophomore and winner of the 1938 title, today was seeded No. 1 for the national indoor junior tennis championships opening at the Seventh Regiment armory next Monday.

Seymour Greenberg, of Chicago, was seeded No. 2 and Isadore Bellis, of Philadelphia, No. 3. Below the leaders in order were seeded, William McGehee, Durham, N. C.; William Umstaedter, Louisiana State University; Robert J. Freedman, Springfield, Mass.; Malcolm Weinstein, Philadelphia; H. G. Van Rensselaer, New York; Don Buffington, Durham, N. C.; Melvin Schwartzman, New York, and David Johnson, Washington, D. C.

A total of 97 entered the junior championship.

E. Victor Seixas Jr., of Philadelphia, was seeded No. 1 at the top of 36 entrants in the boys' division of the play. Also seeded were E. Blair Hawley, of Phillips Exeter, N. H.; Academy, No. 2; Gardner Lerner, Chicago, No. 3; and James Everett, Chicago, No. 4.

FLORIDA'S FIVE MISS VETERANS

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Veterans will be scarce on the University of Florida's basketball squad this season but Coach Sam McAllister believes the Gator cage team will be better than last year.

Only a handful of lettermen were on hand when players started practice.

Returning from the 1937-38 squad were Al Rayburn and Ray Boozer, forwards; Jack Maynard, a guard; Howard Hughes, who alternated at guard and forward last season and Cliff Whiddon, a forward.

McAllister is counting upon members of last year's undefeated freshman aggregation to strengthen the varsity. On hand from baby Gators ranks are Vincent Zdanek and Frank Yinshans, forwards; Bill Wood, center; Dean Miller and Dewitt Dawkins, guards. Scholastic difficulties will keep Pat Keen and Bud Walton from early season encounters on the coming schedule.

The Gators have no more games scheduled until after the Christmas holidays. Then they face 14 opponents, including Georgia, Auburn, Georgia Tech and Sewanee in the Southeastern conference and Stetson and Tampa in the state.

Florida's 1937-38 record was unimpressive as the Gators turned in 11 victories and 9 defeats. In conference warfare the team won only four and lost six games.

The Florida schedule: January 6—Southern College (tentative) here. January 12-14—Georgia, here. January 15—Southern College (tentative) Lakeland. January 17—Stetson, Deland. February 4—Georgia Tech, here. February 6—Sewanee, here. February 11—Georgia, Athens. February 18—Stetson, here. February 24-25—Auburn, Auburn.

Yule Check Ready; Death Takes Fan

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Twenty-year-old Roy Petty, an ardent baseball fan during the last five years which he spent as a patient in a sanitarium, died there yesterday without choosing this year's Christmas gift from his idol, Connie Mack.

The veteran manager of the Philadelphia American league team met Roy while here for an exhibition game several years ago and had kept in touch with him ever since. Ten days ago his annual check for a Christmas present arrived but nurses said the youth had not had an opportunity to cash it.

7-FOOT SAILFISH

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Mrs. J. F. Crane, of Louisville, Ky., claimed a new women's Atlantic sailfish record today with a seven-foot, nine-inch catch that weighed 92 1-2 pounds. The former record was set in 1925 by Mrs. John Lochrie, of Philadelphia, with a 66-pounder she caught off Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Decatur Leaves Today for Game Thursday With Tyler, Texas

Public Gets Chance To See Tech Five

New Gymnasium Affords Ample Room for Spectators; 14-Game Basket Ball Schedule Announced.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.
The year after four of the most colorful basketball players in Tech history finished their careers is the year Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Q. Public will again be allowed to see the Tech quintet in action. Bo Johnson, Bill Jordan, Fletcher Sims and Ed Jones combined last year to help give Coach Roy Munford one of the smoothest fives in the business and a Southeastern conference championship. These boys, plus George Smith, Junior Anderson and Joe Ebdon, packed more drawing power than a pack of artist pencils.

But their last year of play was in virtual privacy as there was room enough at Jacket home games for only the players and a few students. The naval armory simply wasn't large enough to let the gates down to the public and Atlanta fans missed some of the more sensational basketball.

However, with only Anderson and Smith returning and prospects for a successful defense of the championship poor, home contests this year will be played in the new gym with ample seating space for one and all.

At the opening game last year, tickets were placed on sale but after the tariff-paying guests were seated there was room for neither students nor players and ticket sellers were again out of jobs.

Those who were denied the opportunity last year will get a chance to see the yellow jackets in action in eight home games this year.

The schedule, released Monday, says the Techs will open with Mercer on January 11 and play 14 games, concluding the regular season with Auburn on February 27.

Eight Southeastern conference foes are on the card in addition to the Bears and South Carolina. The Bulldogs of Elmer Lampe will be played twice as usual, the first game in Athens and the second here. The Jackets will finish the season with the annual S. C. C. tournament in Knoxville.

THE SCHEDULE.
Jan. 11—Mercer in Atlanta.
Jan. 14—Vanderbilt in Atlanta.
Jan. 21—Tulane in Atlanta.
Jan. 28—Georgia in Athens.

COACH MARTIN WILL TAKE TWO FULL ELEVENS

Champs Arrive Wednesday; Workout Set for Afternoon.

By ROY WHITE.

Decatur High's undefeated North Georgia Interscholastic conference champions, will move out of the Terminal station at 7:10 o'clock this morning for Tyler, Texas, and another grid war, the last of the year, Thursday afternoon in the feature of a Tyler rose festival.

A light workout was held Monday afternoon in the final practice of the year on the Decatur field. Another light drill is scheduled for Wednesday afternoon at Tyler.

The team will arrive at Tyler shortly before noon Wednesday and will leave immediately after the game in order to arrive home late Friday night.

Two full teams, two coaches, a manager, O. L. Amsler, principal of the school, and Hugh Trotti, secretary of the Decatur board of education, and the athletic representative from the board, will make the trip to Tyler.

THOSE ON TRIP.

Those making the trip are Coaches Joe Martin and Allen Shi, Manager DeLooney Hull, James Womack, president of the senior class and the team's captain for the post-season game, and Players Richard Bell, B. P. Brooks, Frank Broyles, E. and R. Dukehart, E. Golding, Robert Jakes, Dan and Ralph Kenerly, Jack Laseter, James Leonard, Pa. Morgan, Jack Phelps, Ed. Harold and Lynnwood Pierce, George Pittman, Phillip Shachert, Charles Wright, Fred Rainey and Tom Rutland.

There are three sets of brothers, Dukehart, Kenerly and Pierce, on the team and from each group is an outstanding player. E. Dukehart has been an outstanding line-man, Harold Pierce has blocked 10 punts to help Decatur set a new N. G. I. C. record of 13 blocked in nine games and Ralph Kenerly is probably the outstanding back of the preps.

Kenerly not only is a great runner and a fine punter, but has thrown a majority of Decatur's touchdowns this season. He was named on every all-star team of the year and has a chance to play January 2 in an all-star game at Phoenix, Ariz.

Trotti, vice president and business manager of The Constitution, has been on the bench at every game Decatur has played this year and could not resist the temptation to go with the team to Texas. He has been one of Decatur's most ardent supporters for years and has a great record for "bench-warming" at Decatur High. He holds the unique distinction of never having offered any coaching advice.

Decatur has won four titles and finished second twice, in the past eight years of N. G. I. C. competition. In winning eight and tying one, the Bulldogs scored 214 points against 33 for the opposition.

PELS' PILOT STARTS TRAINING

Roger Peckinpaugh, former major league shortstop, began spring "training" in his Cleveland, Ohio, home December 17 by playing train with his eight-year-old son, John. Peckinpaugh, former Cleveland manager, was recently appointed pilot of the New Orleans club of the Southern association.

THE SPORTLIGHT

By GRANTLAND RICE.

TROJAN SPEED.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 19.—We have no accurate record as to how fast those ancient Greek platoons came out of the famous Trojan horse. But Duke's stout and game defense will have to be on guard against the speed that is coming from Howard Jones' modern Trojan machine, where both line and backfield strike with lightning effect.

I can't recall having looked at more fast, big men on one squad than Southern California can send into action. The average weight of the first team is around 200 pounds, and there isn't a lumbering athlete in the group. They all can move in a hurry. The second team is almost on a par with the first, just as the case was at Pittsburgh a year ago.

I have been watching Coach Jones and his staff speeding up the Trojan attack and defense for several days and I can advise Wallace Wade and his strong Duke team that they have quite a job ahead on Pasadena turf.

"This is one of the fastest teams I've ever had," Coach Jones told me. "It is big and rugged—but after all this is the age of speed. I have at least four backs who are as fast as any I've seen, and there is all the speed anyone needs along the line and out at the ends."

There are six sophomores and four juniors on his replacement level, so you can figure the Trojan prospects for 1939.

The Speed Factor.
This Trojan speed factor counts in more ways than mere ball carrying. It counts in rushing the passer and rushing the kicker. It counts in pass interception and in returning kicks that happen to be a trifle beyond an end's guarding range. It counts in every form of defensive play.

Using this speed in every available way, Jones has also worked exceptionally hard on defensive tackling and hard blocking. He has always been a firm believer in the fundamentals, blocking and tackling, and these were two of the main details that upset Notre Dame. A flock of fast-moving backs and a line of fast-moving linemen were sent a team into the Rose Bowl any better than this present squad is.

"We'll certainly have no alibis if Duke can beat us," Howard said. "We have just what is needed. We were terrible against Alabama. We improved only a little when we went to the Rose Bowl. We have been coming along to reach our peak against California, U. C. L. A. and Notre Dame."

I am not fooling myself about Duke. I happen to know what a fine coach Wallace Wade is. It is a pleasure to know the defensive strength it takes to go through nine games and not be scored on. We know that only high-class football can beat Duke. But I still don't think we ever sent a team into the Rose Bowl any better than this present squad is.

This is something when you recall that against two strong Pittsburgh teams and Tulane the Rose Bowl Trojans ran up more than 100 points, which is scoring de luxe.

Jones' outstanding stars include Big Smith at guard—Hoffman at fullback, known as "the answer to a coach's prayer"—Lansell, his brilliant quarter—Banta and Anderson and Jones, two of these on the second team—all of his six ends—but above all an even balance in team strength, whether you take the first or the second team.

I must say that Duke will need much more offensive strength than it showed against Pittsburgh to beat this Southern California round-up, so well equipped physically and so well drilled in the fundamentals of hard football—blocking and tackling. Duke's defensive strength is too well known. But between this date and the Rose Bowl test Duke will have to locate a much stronger attack than it has shown all year to match the offense that Southern California will send to the field.

After watching this Trojan team work out I can see the barricade that Notre Dame faced. I can see the barricade that Duke faces unless the Blue Devils show more offensive speed than they were able to produce this last fall with so many backs out of action.

Jones will call on little scrimmaging from now on. His big team, sun-browned and keen to go, has had its share of hard work and he doesn't care to risk any further chance of injury.

Duke must look for all the fast starting speed it can locate, plus an effective passing game, to make any dent in this Trojan wall.

SKIBOS ARRIVE.
BAY ST. LOUIS, Miss., Dec. 19.—(P)—Forty-five Tech footballers—with coaches, trainers and academic instructors—arrived here today to train for the game against Texas Christian University at New Orleans January 2.

PIRATES CALLED DISAPPOINTMENT OF 1938 SEASON

Bucs Nose Out Rice Grid-der in Annual A. P. Poll.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—(P)—Pie Traynor, sitting in the hotel lobby last night during the big league baseball convention, sighed gustily and said:

"Nobody knows what starts a thing like that, and after it starts there's not a thing in the world you can do about it except just sit and suffer."

Pie was referring, of course, to the collapse of his Pittsburgh Pirates in the closing weeks of the recent National league race, a collapse that saw them throw away an apparently air-tight lead and blow the pennant to the Chicago Cubs in the last 48 hours.

Now, 70 sports writers participating in the eighth annual Associated Press poll have agreed with Pie that his plucked Pirates supplied the greatest disappointment of the 1938 sports season, with only the Rice Institute football team offering serious opposition.

Rice, you may recall, was the gridiron colossus that was going to mop up the Southwest conference and then chase some unlucky team right out of the Rose Bowl. It had in Ernie Lane a veritable backfield genius who had led the sophomore eleven of the previous year to the Southwest conference title. By winning only four of 10 starts, the Owls easily took runner-up disappointment honors over Max Schmeling.

Cleveland's failure to place higher than third in the American league was good for 9-1-2. Al Hostak, the Seattle boy who knocked out Freddie Steele for the middleweight championship and then was beaten half to death by Solly Krieger, attracted 9 points.

The St. Louis Cardinals and Lou Gehrig, veteran Yankee first baseman, had 7 apiece. Six points each went to the New York Giants, the West Virginia football team and the United States Walker cup team, which was trimmed by the British side.

Three points: Detroit Tigers, Pittsburgh football team, Columbia football team, Freddie Steele, boxer; Boston Bruins in hockey play-offs; Indiana football team, Illinois football team, Whizzer White.

Two points: University of Texas football team, Mysterious Montague, the fabulous golfer; Ohio State football team, Nebraska football team, Bob Feller, Cleveland pitcher, the Tony Galento-Harry Thomas fight.

One point: Honey Galento (himself), Bill De Correvont, Northwestern freshman football star, who was reported to have fumbled his studies.

Northwestern Denies De Correvont 'Flunked.'
CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—(P)—Northwestern University officials said they were mystified today by the one point cast in the sports disappointment poll of 1938 for Bill De Correvont, football player, "who was thrown for a loss scholastically."

They said De Correvont had had no scholastic difficulties. Members of the former high school gridiron sensation's family also said his grades were satisfactory.

JUMP RECORD.
BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 19.—(P)—Juan Braceras, Argentine sportsman, today claimed a world record of broad jump by a horse. His horse, Mineral, cleared 25.095 feet during an equestrian tournament here yesterday.

BILL BOYD WINS.
BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 19.—(P)—Jack Dempsey's protegee heavyweight, Wild Bill Boyd, added another victory to his string tonight by pounding Big Boy Brackett into a reeling senseless mass in nine rounds.

ESCOBAR LOSES.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—(P)—Sixto Escobar, world bantamweight boxing champion failed to win a round here tonight, and Al Mancini, clever Providence, R. I. fighter, easily captured a 10-round decision.

Warren Five Plays Collegians Tonight

Abraham Baldwin Unbeaten; Hogansville Donkey Basket Ball Coming Thursday.

A fast-stepping Abraham Baldwin College basketball team, unbeaten in four starts, and year in and year out one of the leading junior college quintets in Dixie, will provide the opposition for Warren's talented five at Warren Arena tonight.

A preliminary between Warren's strong reserves and Piedmont laundry will begin at 7 o'clock and the main game will get under way at 8:15.

Two big assignments this week. Besides tonight's clash with the Tifton, Ga., lads, a game has been scheduled with Hogansville, for Thursday night. Hogansville trimmed J. P. C. on the Progressive's court Sunday night. Another big attraction on the Thursday night program will be the first appearance in Georgia of donkey basketball. These 10 trained burros will be ridden by Atlantans. This new sport is said to be going over great throughout the country.

THREE GAMES.
Thursday night's show, from which the Christmas funds of the three Atlanta newspapers will receive 25 per cent of the receipts, will be a three-act attraction. Besides the Warren-Hogansville game and donkey basketball, which will be played in four 10-minute quarters, Warren Reserves will play a suitable opponent.

Shep Lauter believes his team will have to be red hot tonight if it hopes to hold its own with the Abraham Baldwin Rams. The visitors won the Georgia junior college championship in 1937, won 16 out of 20 games last year and lost only two players by graduation. This is one of the best teams they have had.

If Virlyn Moore rounds into form tonight and finds the shooting range that has been his in recent years, Warren will have a good chance to win. Thus far, the former Bulldog ace has not hit his old stride. The team has been slow rounding into form, but is gaining polish and improving in its teamwork, looking particularly good in vanquishing a crack Good year team from Gadsden last week.

SLATED TO START.
Lauter will probably start Moore and Fred Bradford at forwards tonight; Ed Copeland, playing top notch ball, will open at center; Joel Tierce and Gene Warlick are probable starters at the guard berth.

Orion Mitchell, the cagey veteran who coaches Abraham Baldwin, has intimated that his starters will be Bearden and Brooks, forwards; Williams, center; Carter and Ward, guards.

Attendance has been unusually good at all Warren games this season and another big turnout is expected for what should be a first rate cage show. Popular prices are featured.

Miami High Victor; To Play Christmas
MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 19.—(P)—Miami High school earned the privilege of playing McKeesport, Pa., in a Christmas Day football game here by nosing out Miami Edison, 7 to 6, before 13,148 spectators tonight in a play-off for the city championship.

It was the 16th time the schools had met on the gridiron with Edison falling to win a game. They battled to a 6-6 tie last month and invited the McKeesport team to play the winner in the Christmas sectional, a fixture here since 1929.

Galento, Buddy Baer May Fight at Miami
MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 19.—(P)—The Miami stadium committee granted permission to George R. K. Carter, of Miami Beach, today to use the structure for a proposed fight February 22 between Tony Galento, rated by the National Boxing Association as the No. 1 heavyweight challenger, and Buddy Baer, younger brother of the former champion.

Carter, a one-time associate of the late George (Tex) Rickard, received approval of the match from the Miami Boxing Commission several days ago.

TARZAN AND THE ELEPHANT MEN—No. 56

Valthor spurred his mount to a trot, hoping to head off the wild elephant from his quarry. But he was too late. The pursuing beast overtook the terrified man, lifted him thrice and flung him to earth, then trampled him into the dust of the barren plain.

At this moment Valthor and Wood arrived. Wood expected a repetition of the scene he had witnessed, with himself or Valthor as the victim. Instead, the Aethian rode his elephant quietly toward the wild bull, which stood calmly switching his tail.

All the madness had gone from the rogue elephant with the killing of his victim. And now Wood, following Valthor, closed in on the other side. Meanwhile Valthor chanted in a low monotone a song used by the Aethian elephantmen to soothe the great beasts.

The trained elephants ridden by Wood and Valthor knew their parts well, and between them the wild bull was soon on his way to the big corral. Stanley Wood was elated, but his spirits were soon to be dashed by the harrowing consequences of his heroism.

They're Off for a Honeymoon in the Bahamas

Amid the glitter and glamor that is society's, Gloria Baker and Henry J. Topping Jr. were married yesterday at Palm Beach, Fla. The smiling couple is shown after the wedding. They will honeymoon in the Bahamas.

Society in All Its Fancy Trappings Attends Baker-Topping Marriage

Combination of Champagne and Orchids Adds Glamour to Wedding Which Draws Big-Wigs of Social Set to Palm Beach.

PALM BEACH, Fla., Dec. 19.—

(P)—Glamorous Gloria Baker and Henry J. (Bob) Topping were married today in a romantic setting of orchids and champagne.

They said their vows under a bell of white roses before an altar of white orchids, carnations and gladioli in the drawing room at the Spanish villa of Mrs. Margaret Emerson, the bride's mother. The Rev. Arthur M. Depey, of the First Christian church, performed the double ring ceremony.

After a luncheon and reception for 45 guests in the flagstone patio, the young couple—Mimi is 18 and her husband 24—left for a honeymoon at Cat Cay, in the Bahamas, a center for big game fishing. Next month they will go to Honolulu.

The bride, her wide eyes shining and her dark tresses bound in a veil of old lace her mother had worn, had a white satin dirndl for her wedding dress and white butterfly orchids for her bouquet.

She was given in marriage by her sportsman half-brother, Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt. The wife of her other half-brother, Mrs. Lucile Parsons, was matron-of-honor. There were no bridesmaids. Polo-playing Daniel R. Topping was best man for his brother, Dan Topping's wife, the actress Arline Judge, was among the guests.

Mrs. Vanderbilt wore a powder blue silk gown and carried a bouquet of pale mauve orchids. Mrs.

Emerson also was gowned in blue silk, with a leghorn hat. The men wore formal morning clothes.

It was the second marriage for Topping, who in three years will come into a $9,000,000 estate left by his maternal grandfather, Daniel Gray Reid, tinplate magnate. Topping was divorced at Bridgeport, Conn., last week by Jane Shaddock, blond actress and aviatrix.

"NOTHING TO SAY," EX-WIFE COMMENTS

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 19.—(P)—Jayne Shaddock, who divorced Henry J. Topping, tinplate heir, last week, flew here tonight and remarked "I've nothing to say—nothing" about Topping's marriage today in Palm Beach, Fla., to glamorous Gloria Baker.

"I have no romance whatever in my life now," she said as she greeted her father, J. E. Shaddock. "And I'm not interested in the ice cream business."

She explained that she plans to fly to Honolulu later this week by clipper to spend Christmas with her mother and establish an ice cream factory.

Miss Shaddock divorced Topping in Bridgeport, Conn. They were married in August, 1935, in an air elopement to Armonk, N. J., shortly after she divorced Jack Kirkland, author of the play, "Tobacco Road."

ALDERMAN ACTIONS

ASSAILED IN TRIAL

Snyder's Attorney Denounces Ruth Etting's Husband as a Coward.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 19.—(P)—In the absence of Ruth Etting, and the two other persons he is charged with attempting to murder, Martin "Colonel Gimp" Snyder today heard his attorney, Jerry Giesler, assail their testimony as contradictory of the state's charges.

Giesler, in his closing argument, declared Myrl Alderman, present husband of Miss Etting, who was Snyder's wife for 17 years, did nothing to prevent Snyder from forcing him to drive to the Alderman home the night of last October 15, when Alderman was shot and wounded.

"And he said he loved Miss Etting at that time!" Giesler exclaimed. "He said he loved Miss Etting and she was the woman he was going to marry. And yet he said he knew Miss Etting was going to be killed. He was so cowardly he did nothing in any way to prevent the defendant from carrying out that asserted threat."

"Give consideration to the type of individual Alderman is. Remember this defendant is a cripple."

Snyder is charged with kidnapping Alderman at a radio station, forcing him to drive to the Alderman home and attempting there to murder Alderman, Miss Etting and Ruth Snyder, his own daughter by a previous marriage.

Neither Alderman, Miss Etting nor Miss Snyder was present during Giesler's closing argument.

Attacking the testimony of the two women as contradicting the prosecution's charges, the defense attorney declared:

"Miss Etting testified the defendant did not attempt to murder her. Miss Snyder testified the defendant did not attempt to murder her. No bullets passed in their direction."

SILK MILL LOANS DECLARED ILLEGAL

Federal Allotment of $3,050,000 to Homestead Projects Is Affected.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—(P)—Federal loans of $3,050,000 for five co-operative silk mills were pronounced illegal by the comptroller general's office today, but officials who made the loans declared they would disregard the ruling.

"The money has been lent, part of it has been spent, and the contracts have been signed; I don't see what we can do about it," one official of the Farm Security Administration said.

Richard N. Elliott, acting comptroller general, had objected that besides being without warrant in law, the establishment of the silk hosiery mills on the FSA's rural homestead projects would tend to throw other workers out of jobs and would mean increased competition with cotton.

The original plan for the homestead projects assumed that private industry would be attracted to the projects. Thus the project dwellers would receive an income drawn partly from the soil allotted to them and partly from industrial employment.

Industry, however, failed to be attracted and the FSA conceived the idea of advancing funds to co-operative associations of project dwellers. These in turn were to negotiate with going industrial concerns to come in and build and operate factories with the money. Actually, officials said, the FSA has done all the negotiating for the project co-operatives.

Under this system, a pants factory was established at Westmoreland homes project and a wood-working mill at Tygart Valley, W. Va. In both cases, the use of FSA funds for the purpose was approved by the acting comptroller general, FSA officials asserted.

COLUMBUS TRI-HI-Y GIVES TOOTHBRUSHES

COLUMBUS, Ga., Dec. 19.—(P)—The Tri-Hi-Y Club of the Columbus High school, voted to make its Christmas giving this year practical, and pledged "a toothbrush for every underprivileged child in the Columbus school system."

In previous years the club assumed the task of providing at least one Columbus family with a merry Christmas. The change resulted when a dental clinic showed about 1,000 pupils unable to pay for needed dental services.
